Its Nullifiers Considered — Ohio Political Resume.

THE LIMA NEWS BUREAU
Columbus, August 27.
COLUMBUS.—(Special).—There is encouragement for friends of the Constitution in the proclamation of Governor Harry L. Davis for September 17 as "Constitution Day," specifically devoted to the study of the United States and just as applicable for study of the Constitution of the State of Ohio. More so, perhaps, because the improved and amended Constitution was adopted September 3, 1912, and the great instrument of 1851 made modern to conform to the growth of industrial, economic and political democracy; the democracy that doubtless was the ultimate ideal of the patriots that framed the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the United States. In giving study to the constitution it will naturally recall that the perils which confront it may be studied, its enemies without and within. Much has been heard in recent years of the bolsheviks, parlor and those of red, as enemies within. The Governor's proclamation will incite study of these and other elements, just as dangerous perhaps, because they appear to be friends.

Let us consider, for instance, the nullifiers of the Constitution. Where are they to be found? If they alone are to be found in the ranks of the violent radicals, they may easily be ignored and it will not require a great amount of force to deal with them. Are they otherwise or elsewhere? Let the question be answered by Governor, lawmaker and Supreme court judge. Can all appear before the people and say: I swore to uphold and defend the Constitution of Ohio, I have fulfilled my duty. The Constitution receives many pledges for things to be done, but it receives few statements that the pledges have been kept. But an such statements be made? Will they be made? The Governor has called for a study and public study of the Constitution, so a little inquiry may not be out of place. Doubtless it would be difficult to get him or the Supreme court judges to go into the question of their own adherence to solemn pledges. The Governor at this day seldom mentions the manner in which he stole one part of the Constitution, the referendum provision, but the majority judges of the Ohio Supreme court never mention the subject. They cannot be made to mention it. They have avoided it in public, in the cloistered precincts of the consultation room, in private conversations, and in private conversation.

It may also encourage friends of institutional government to learn at the head of one co-ordinate branch of the state government, chief Justice C. T. Marshall, will probably have spoken ere Constitution Day in defense of the Constitution of Ohio and against inroads of matter from what source they have been planned. There are hopes in the breasts of the men who put thru the emergency clause of the re-organization ripper bill that Judge Marshall might be silent, but such a condition was not to be realized. Marshall speaks out. To add to interest, three judges who did that the Constitution was above man for spoils might debate on constitution Day with those who did that the highest constitutional law is expressed in the words of the song, "We Want What We Want When We Want It." What could be done to make the people more fully reverence the sacred Constitution?

Let it should be imputed to this issue of the people that he is not serious in the recording of this history, let it be said now that he is, readily so. There is no reason for being otherwise. "Back to the institution" was a good slogan in its own day and it is a good slogan now. The friends of progress did back to the constitution to find a means of amending it and reflecting it, using the constitution means provided for that purpose. On the one hand of progress say as such? If they can, then why the force on the ripper decision? Not a single man has spoken for it. Not a single man has lifted up his voice and until Governor Davis mentioned Constitution Day there is every effort to let it drop out mind. Even the Governor may

AFTER SAMPLING EVIDENCE

CHICAGO. — Police Magistrate Walter Taylor could still hand out $200 and costs Saturday, even after tasting the contents of a barrel of real cider.

"Um, um," he said, smacking his lips after finding that the alleged booze was hard.

But not only the cider was hard, as George Barber, the owner, discovered the next minute when sentence was passed on him.

SEEKS PLACE ON
SCHOOL BOARD

E. B. Taylor To File Petition Within Few Days.

IS INDEPENDENT CANDIDATE

Opposition for Austin and Hughes Develops.

E. B. Taylor, 742 W. Spring-st., representative of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass company, announced Saturday night that his petition as an independent candidate for member of the school board of Lima is near ready for filing.

"I have almost the required number of names," Taylor said Saturday, "and expect to file the petition in the office of the board of elections some time this week, before September 8, the final date to come within the required time of 30 days before the election, under the law."

Taylor's appearance in the field as an aspirant for place on the school board assures that Ralph W. Austin and Homer Hughes, Republicans, nominated on August 9 in the primary election, will have opposition. There are two members of the board to be elected. Taylor is a Democrat, but will make his campaign as an independent, carrying out the intent of the law in choosing of school board members, which contemplates keeping the school board out of politics.

The latest entrant for school board honors has been a resident of Lima a number of years and has four children in school. One of the members of his household graduated last spring from Lima high school.

A report gained circulation Saturday that Mrs. W. B. Kirk, 1123 Rice-ave, would also be an independent candidate for member of the school board. Mrs. Kirk was absent from the city Saturday and could not be reached for confirmation or denial of the report. Near friends of Mrs. Kirk, however, declared that she intended seeking place on the board.

It is expected, according to statements made Saturday night from the office of the board of elections, that there will be at least one other candidate for school board.

PAIR INJURED IN
AUTO CRASH

Indiana People Run Down In Main-st by Interurban Car.

Two persons narrowly escaped injuries Saturday afternoon when interurban freight car No. 760 struck an Overland automobile occupied by Mr. and Mrs. John Betz, St. Joe, Ind., at Main and McKibben-sts. Betz was driving the auto. The couple were visiting Mr. Betz's nephew, W. F. Reichelderfer, 613 N. Metcalf-st. J. W. Hunt, was conductor on the interurban car which collided with the machine.

According to witnesses, Betz was proceeding east on McKibben-st, while the interurban car was going south. Apparently Betz did not see the car until too late to avoid it. The car struck the machine about three feet from the radiator. Mrs. Betz, seeing the collision was unavoidable, attempted to jump. She failed to free the auto, and was dragged several feet, witnesses say. Betz stayed with the machine.

An ambulance was rushed to the scene and conveyed Betz and his wife to the home of their nephew, where an examination disclosed no serious injuries. Betz is 50 and Mrs. Betz is 48.

The left front wheel of the automobile was broken and the hood and radiator badly damaged.

FATAL CRASH

PROPAGANDA

7 Deaths In Maryland Claimed Due to Plane Manufacturers' Plans

PROBERS REPORT

Aerial League Submits Findings In Wreck to Attorney General

NEW YORK.—Seven victims of the aerial tragedy at Morgantown, Md., last May, were killed in an illegitimate "propaganda flight," President Henry Woodhouse, of the Aerial League of America, charged in a report to Attorney General Daugherty Saturday night.

Colonel Archie Miller and six others were killed when in returning from Langley Field in an "Eagle army ambulance plane," the machine crashed in a terrific storm.

"The flights," Woodhouse charged, "were arranged by agents of a clique of aircraft manufacturers at great expense for the purpose of spreading propaganda among members of congress to support schemes for larger aeronautic appropriations and retard grand jury investigation of apparent frauds in army aircraft contracts."

Woodhouse presented his report as part of an investigation requested by the department of justice into the destruction of government airplanes and other property.

"Even God was libeled," Woodhouse wrote. He declared that the facts in the case were suppressed in the official report of the accident to the secretary of war, to whom the tragedy was represented as "an act of God."

The following points were made in the Woodhouse report:

"The Eagle balance was an experimental plane illegally purchased without a call for bids.

"The air service did not need the ambulance as a special aerial ambulance had been developed by air service engineers."

STRIPPED OF FITTINGS

To carry out its propaganda flight, Woodhouse charged, the ambulance was stripped of its fittings, which were replaced by loose camp stools "on which the victims of this horrible tragedy sat in the eventful flight which ended in their deaths."

In the morning flight to Langley Field, the passengers included two members of congress, Philip P. Campbell, of Kansas, and Joseph Walsh, of Massachusetts, who were invited guests.

"The flight was undertaken despite the warnings of the impending storm transmitted to the Langley Field and other aviation fields by the United States weather bureau."

The morning flight from Washington to Langley Field proved the airplane was unbalanced and the air "bumpy" and the loose stools used as seats were wobbly and the congressmen and the French air attaché, Captain Laverne, wisely declined flying back to Washington that afternoon.

THROWN FROM STOOLS

"The only obvious deductions regarding the causes of the tragedy are that when the aerial ambulance ran into the windstorm near Morgantown, before it crashed, the pilot flew low and circled about seeking a landing place, and as the airplane tipped and nosed down the loose camp stools slid forward, throwing the passengers in a heap on the pilot and the plane was plunged downward by their weight and struck the ground."

"Nothing else can explain the failure of the pilot to shut off the engine, which is the mechanical cause of the actual killing of the seven men."

"The pilot's inability to shut off the engine turned the aeroplane's power plant into a murderous machine which pounded, tore and ground the bodies into an unrecognizable mass."

Woodhouse said that extraordinary influence was brought to bear on officers and others who could have cleared up the mystery of the tragedy and that "unlawful practice" was resorted to in suppressing the evidence.

Woodhouse also charged the use of intoxicants at Langley Field prior to the return trip.

"After our courtship we were quietly married," the mayor said. "Because of Mrs. Fitzgerald's desire to continue her musical studies abroad we kept the marriage secret by mutual agreement."

EFFECTS OF DEAD
BANDIT SOLD

Auto, Diamond Pin and Ring Bought by Toledo Man.

BANDIT'S DEATH RECALLED

Mother Pleads For Personal Effects of Son.

A large Mercer automobile, contracted for by Raleigh Ross Townsend, member of the McGahan-Townsend bandit gang, killed in a running gun battle with police in Lima on May 21, was sold Saturday afternoon at public auction to Edward Miller, Toledo, representing the Toledo Mercer-Roamer Car company, Madison-ave.

Miller purchased a diamond ring and diamond pin in possession of Townsend when he met death.

The automobile was appraised at $3,500 and brought $2,500. It is almost new and sold originally for $5,250. The car was practically unused. Miller had brought it to Lima to turn over to Townsend the day he was killed. Townsend had traded his Marmion automobile for the car. There was $1,800 due on the machine. By payment of $700, Miller secured the car.

The diamond pin was appraised at $500 and brought $405. The diamond ring, appraised at $400, was sold for $320.

WATCH BOUGHT FOR MOTHER

Attorney Francis W. Durbin, acting for Mrs. Bert Townsend, the mother, Douthat, Okla., bid in the watch at $70. It was appraised at $60.

Clothes and intimate personal property of Townsend will be sent his mother by Roy Bowersock, administrator of the estate. It will be marked at two-thirds the appraised value and charged to the distributed share of the mother.

There was but one other bidder against Miller, said to have been John Hall, Buffalo.

Mrs. Townsend has written most appealing letters to Assistant Prosecuting Attorney R. R. Trubey. In one she says: "Please send me all the clothes and keepsakes of my son, for I have nothing to remember my darling boy."

Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Trubey will see to it that Mrs. Townsend's request is complied with. He will send the clothing, watch and keepsakes on their homeward journey the first of the week.

BODY CUT IN TRANSIT

Body of Townsend was badly lacerated in shipping to his home the week after he was killed. In almost every letter Mrs. Townsend refers to this and tells of the cuts inflicted on her boy's face disclosed when the casket was opened there. The glass of the casket had been broken in transportation and Townsend's face was a mass of cuts, the mother says, when she viewed the body upon its arrival at Joplin Mo., where the funeral was held, before the body was removed to Douthat, a few miles away, for burial.

MUSICAL COMEDY DAMSEL
DOESN'T LIKE TACTICS
OF LIMA'S POLICEDAME

Pearl Wallace, 26, a member of the musical comedy which played at the Orpheum theatre last week, doesn't like the tactics used by Poldamede Van Ganten, so she registered a complaint with Night Captain Dawson of police headquarters.

Pearl declares, after the show Wednesday night, she was with a party in a local restaurant. It was near the witching hour. In walked the poldamede. Pearl being petite and young looking, became the prey of Mrs. Van Ganten, so Pearl says.

The poldamede escorted Pearl from the restaurant, according to other young woman's story, and haled her into juvenile court. There her true age developed.

"I'm old enough to attend to my own business," Pearl told Captain Dawson, Friday night. "I was humiliated. Since the episode I am being pointed out by persons on the street. I know, show people like publicly, but not that kind. I'm not telling you what I'm thinking about your police-women."

FATE OF IRISH
IN HANDS OF
SINN FEINERS

Next Peace Move Shifted to Dublin by Lloyd George's Reply

PARLEY PLANNED

De Valera Expected to Visit London this Week for Another Conference

DUBLIN. — "The situation is no worse than it was before Lloyd George's reply came," a member of the Dail Eireann declared Saturday night, after two momentous meetings, one of the Sinn Fein cabinet, the other of its parliament, had failed to come to definite conclusion regarding the next step in the Irish controversy.

The next move is up to Sinn Fein, and it was believed here that De Valera and other republican leaders would go to London next week for a conference with Lloyd George.

Dispute as to what concessions on the part of Britain are to be considered the basis for further negotiations could be obviated, it was pointed out here by the Irish leaders simply going to Downing-st and talking the matter over after they got thru.

This, or rejection of further discussion and resumption of active warfare was the only thing left to be done, it was agreed.

OPTIMISM APPARENT

Among members of the Dail and the general public here, a feeling of optimism continued to be apparent, its source could not be discovered, but its sincerity was undoubted. The Irish people hope for the best and trust their leaders to get the most possible for them.

This was the tone of the Irish press Saturday afternoon, the Evening Telegram and the Herald declaring that the door to peace, however it may have been slammed, is not bolted, and saying editorially that Ireland trusts her leaders, to settle matters without further bloodshed. The Irish Times suggests that a plebiscite be held and says that Lloyd George's letter demands a decisive and immediate reply.

The Freeman's Journal and the Irish Independent urge that Lloyd George modify his terms to meet the demands of the Irish leaders so that peace negotiations can go on.

Two important sessions were held here during the day. The inner circle of Sinn Fein met in secret. De Valera, Griffith, O'Neill, Collins and Keogh were among those present.

Whatever they decided was not announced. It was believed that their discussions of the latest Lloyd George letter was not completed.

Later the Dail Eireann met and its session was also secret and unfinished.

It was recognized here that a further spurning of the British proposals meant war. Reports of Lloyd George's speech at Barnsley left no doubt of that.

The British premier's declarations of Saturday afternoon were not considered to have further complicated the situation however.

Irish leaders found no difficulty in picking the Barnsley speech to pieces with figurative argument.

LLOYD GEORGE'S PLEA

BARNESLEY, England. — All hope of Irish settlement must be abandoned if Ireland insists upon separation, David Lloyd George, receiving the freedom of the borough of Barnsley declared today.

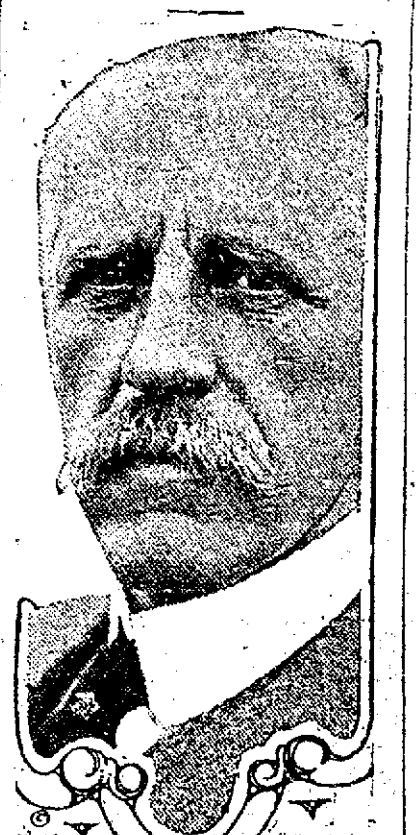

The British premier pleaded for common sense and exclaimed: "For God's sake, let us set aside all prejudices. Britain has risen above prejudices, I am proud to say. The proposed terms are more generous than any ever before proposed. They are different from any other terms. They commend themselves to the whole of the civilized world. I trust that common sense may prevail."

"We cannot countenance this separation, tearing up the United Kingdom, any more than America would countenance the tearing up of the United States."

"Civil war in Ireland would follow a severance from the United Kingdom."

"If Ireland has the right to separate herself from us, so have Scotland and Wales."

"I believe that when the Irish people realize that it is real freedom which is being offered them they will appreciate that their destiny is greater as a free people inside a federation of free peoples."

Dr. Fridtjof Nansen, of Norway, the famous polar explorer, has been selected by the Red Cross Union of direct Russian famine relief. He is now in Riga. Dr. Nansen asserts that if help is to be on a scale large enough to be of real benefit it must be governmental, not merely voluntary.

BULK OF ESTATE

Timothy Spellacy Will Inherited in Los Angeles.

RELATIVES ARE REMEMBERED

Nieces Also Share in Property of Late Oil Baron.

Mrs. Elizabeth Spellacy, Los Angeles, Calif., will inherit the bulk of the estate of her husband, the late Timothy Spellacy, oil baron and politician who died at St. Rita's hospital in Lima July 28. It was announced Saturday night by Slim Spellacy, 523 W. North-st, a brother.

The will of the decedent filed in probate court in Los Angeles recently, gives the residence in S. Normandie-ave. in that city to the widow, as well as half of the property, said to be valued at several millions.

Martin J. Spellacy, Hollywood, Calif., who is now in the east, but is expected to return to Lima in about a week, will receive $10,000 in cash. He is the eldest of four surviving brothers.

SISTER AND NIECES SHARE

Mrs. Mary Mooney, Hollywood, Calif., a sister and five nieces will share the remainder of the estate.

According to reports from Los Angeles, telling of the probating of the will, the total value of the estate is not made public.

Michael Spellacy, Tulsa, made a 1160 mile airplane flight to reach the bedside of his dying brother, but arrived in Lima too late.

Timothy Spellacy was one of the pioneer oil men in Ohio and 20 years ago followed the field to California, where he acquired extensive leases near Bakersfield. He was interested in leases and holdings amounting to 50,000 acres in Mexico at the time of his death.

LABOR FEDERATION PLANS
POLITICAL ORGANIZATION

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. — Organized labor Saturday took steps to make its full political strength felt. The executive council of the American Federation of Labor, in session here, formulated plans for a permanent non-partisan political organization to support candidates favorable to labor in local, state and national elections.

The federation had such an organization during the last campaign. Labor leaders claim their efforts brought the defeat of a score of congressmen unfriendly to labor.

The executive council also instructed a committee to investigate all bills before congress that affect labor interests. The findings of these investigations will be transmitted to local unions which will be urged to either support or fight the bills by bringing pressure on their representatives in congress.

FORTY PERSONS KILLED
IN ITALY RAIL WRECK

MAGLIANA, Italy. — Forty persons were reported killed when a passenger train crashed into a freight train here Saturday.

Scores were injured in the wreck. A Red Cross train was immediately prepared and is being rushed to the scene of the disaster.

Most of the passengers were on their way to the seacoast for week-end vacations.

RAILROADERS
PREPARE FOR
BIG WALKOUT

Critical Stage Reached In Differences Between Companies and Employees

SPLIT ON WAGES

Workers Object to Cuts In Pay and Schedule of Hours

CHICAGO.—Preparations for possible strike of 2,000,000 railroad workers of the country were reported under way Saturday night by both union leaders and employers.

Serious differences between the railroads and their workers over wages and hours of work have reached such a critical point that leaders of the workers' organizations have warned their members to get set for a strike, and railroad managers are arranging to meet the emergency.

A strike vote has been taken by only one branch of the railroad workers — the Federated Shop Crafts with 600,000 members. Heads of this union have carried a strike vote around in their pockets since the wage cuts of last July, and the recent decision of the federal labor board that all Sunday work must be paid for at regular rates, instead of as overtime, unless done in an emergency, has led to the flashing of the vote.

WILL REJECT CUT

The Federated Shop Crafts will not call a strike, however, until the vote of the big four railroad brotherhoods, on the question of accepting wage reduction or calling a strike, taken. Union leaders here Saturday night, in touch with the railroad situation, predicted the wage cut will be rejected by a large vote of the big four brotherhoods membership and that a strike will be ordered unless the railroad management makes further concessions.

The Federated Shop Crafts have ordered their membership to get their house in order for a walkout. The men have been instructed to lay in supplies of food, save their money and get their local union organizations in strong condition.

RAILROADS FREAK

Railroads, in meeting the strike threat, have started putting their shops in the hands of local business men and putting them on an open shop basis. By placing their shops under the direction of organizations which are not carriers, the railroads technically escape rulings of the United States railroad labor board, as the shops do not come under the board's jurisdiction when not actually operated by the roads.

Retusal of some railroads, notably the Pennsylvania, to comply with orders of the board, demanding that working agreements be drawn up at conferences between union representatives and employers, has further irritated the men.

CONFERENCE ASKED

The Federated Shop Crafts have sought conferences with the railroad management in an attempt to negotiate the board's ruling regarding overtime for Sunday work. In case the employers refuse to negotiate the shop crafts will be ready to strike. Men have been instructed by B. M. Jewell, president of the railroad department of the American Federation of Labor, to stay at work until an attempt is made to carry on the negotiations.

In the meantime the big four will be taking their strike vote and the entire situation will hang on the outcome of this sounding out of sentiment of the railroad workers.

AMERICANS SLAIN
BY MEXICANS

Arizona Postmaster and Wife Murdered by Bandits.

NOGALES, Ariz.—Search on both sides of the international line continued Saturday night for the Mexican bandit gang that shot and killed Frank J. Pearson and his wife and seriously wounded Mrs. Pearson's sister at Ruby, Ariz.

Several posses under leadership of Sheriff George Whitte, of Santa Cruz-co, were encamped in the hills along the American side of the line, lying in wait for the brigands in case they should attempt to cross the border.

Guardis Rurales on the Mexican side of the line were scouring the northern side of Sonora and Chihuahua.

The bandits, seven in number, were seen by American scouts to cross the Arizona-Sonora line Saturday morning.

Pearson and wife, who were killed while the raiders looted the Ruby postoffice and general store, leave a five-year-old baby girl.

Miss Irene Purcell, Mrs. Pearson's sister, is still in a serious condition at a hospital here.

She was shot thru the left hand and side.

not have perceived that the proclamation would inevitably call forth this matter afresh to public attention. His friends say he did not. Had he so understood it, Security League or no Security League, no proclamation would have issued. But if he slipped he has only himself to blame for the four judges "who helped me slip over the reorganization bill" never mentioned the constitution and they have no immediate intention of doing so.

Now if our readers think too much space has been given to this matter of the decision and of other decisions and executive and legislative acts nullifying the constitution, let them consider farther. Let them think of this: The matter is an issue now—today. It will be an issue before the public in the coming contest for the nomination for the Governorship. What candidates wish it might be forgotten? It will be an issue and continue to be an issue as long as a single actor in the play of 1921 is upon the stage. It is an underlying factor. Take Speaker Rupert B. Beardsley of the House of Representatives and it is noticed that he boasts to audiences that he helped to put over the ripper bill. Or let us consider "Uncle John" Chester, the Corn Stalk leader. Does he consider his vote an asset? He is the only man who has apologized for his vote, saying that he gave it only that he might gain a point in his fight against the sort of classification of property that the gang wanted to put over. Then there is Judge Harvey C. Smith who came out early to say that the people's rights in the referendum ought to be preserved to them in congressional redistricting. What else but the ripper case gives rise to the talk of Senator J. F. Burke for Governor. Certainly study the Constitution. "Back to the Constitution."

Evidence tended to confirm the claim which has often been made to this writer that Leon C. Herrick, Ohio's Highway Commissioner, was far more stung against sinning in the business that has set Ohio wondering. When he defied the Governor in the Butler-co deal and dared the cabinet to resist its demand that the road be made on the artificial asphalt basis, he furnished the confirmation that was waited for patiently. Herrick is a thirty-third degree Mason and holds his personal integrity high. To his friends he will now admit that he has been made a victim of things that make him afraid that the facts will not be understood. But the highway matters remain unchanged. If the fault be not Herrick's the question has arisen who is responsible. Reminiscent of other days, is the distribution of responsibility among the men of the cabinet. How long do they propose to bear up under it?

And so it develops that notwithstanding the decisions of the Ohio Supreme court and the United States Supreme court, the private liability insurance companies are still going on in their merry way in Columbus to write insurance. The day after this intelligence was printed in the newspapers of the state, Attorney General John G. Price, in person, "hot-footed," let us say down to the Ohio Industrial Commission to ascertain whether the commission was responsible for the publication. Of course, the commission was not, since the leak seemed to have come from the Capitol or from some of the numerous insurance men concerned in defeating the law and annulling the decisions. The publication of the difficulty was regarded by the good Attorney General as most "unfortunate." Lacking specifications, this old observer cannot say to whom, but infers that the Attorney General meant it was unfortunate for the liability insurance companies for whom the state government, excepting only the Industrial Commission, has become a sort of guardian angel. Since the Attorney General has a mystery for solution, many other persons have another. It is this: Why is the Attorney General so deeply concerned and why does he not as an officer of the court and of the state bring proceedings in contempt to punish this flagrant violation of law and contempt of court?

In the Fourth Congressional district there has long been a complaint that Democratic folks in Columbus and elsewhere were interfering in the district to the detriment of local conditions. If their charges are true they ought to be seriously considered and a decree entered that all Fourth District affairs be left to be ironed out solely by the Fourth District men with no interference from the outside in any shape or fashion. It would be a wise move. The same may be said for other districts, but particularly the Fourth. What is good advice for the Democrats is equally good for Republicans. Local troubles settled locally will always be a good motto everywhere, at all times. However, it's a great deal like home rule in taxation which has more advocates than believers, the present state administration being an unbelieving advocate—an advocate for the reason that the principle was avowed and unbelieving because it is practically enough to want low tax rates and can only get them by hammering at the local officials and making them cut the rates.

That the Pence law requires the notice of the statute against sale of tobacco to persons under 18 years of age to be posted in each licensee's place of business has reduced the volume of sales to minors, seems to be universally agreed. Most sellers interpret the law to mean that the packages may not be delivered even on written order of the parent or guardian of the minor when intended even for the use of the elders of the family. It will make father wail to the corner drug store for his cigarettes and if he is a farmer it will cause him extra trips to the store and probably make him curse. But the law itself has not been changed by the posting of the notice. It is still as it was when it was universally ignored. It may be suggestive to the speculative mind to know that it is ten years gone since the lid was clamped on sending the youngsters to the corner saloon for a bucket of beer. That was done by the license law. What shall the next ten years bring forth? We hope it will not deal as sternly with the weed as with the brew.

If reports from Cleveland are to be credited, it would seem as the partisan organizations up there are likely to fall to pieces and the canvass for power made along other lines. What other lines no voter can say, maybe lodge, church, wet or dry or what-not. Former Chief of Police Fred Kohler is threatening to butt into the race as the friend of law and order and Major Rose Moriarty is authority that notwithstanding that he was once accused of being a gay Lothario he will have the orderly folks back of him to a man and a woman. She told this truthful scribe he would win on that issue, but her sweet face became rather pensive when the question was asked as to what the friends of Governor Davis would have to say when confronted with the candidacy of Mayor W. S. Fitzgerald who wants a second term and who is the legal and logical successor of Mayor Davis now giving the same kind of administration to Ohio that he gave Cleveland. There is also Councilman Hincheliff who will be in, no matter what who may say. There will be others. Thus far the Democrats have only one candidate, Clerk Haserodt but they, too, are threatened with many.

Upon the assumption that normalcy is not sitting very well, the Democrats of many townships scattered throughout Ohio are getting up slates of candidates for township and village offices where they will run on non-partisan tickets. The papers these days are filled with notices of caucuses and confabs called to pick out regular party men to run. Strangely enough, the Republicans are not displaying the same sort of interest, letting things go by default. There may be wisdom in that course and there may be none. It is not for this recorder of fact to venture an opinion. It is not without significance that the Jacksonians seem to be most anxious to renew the struggle. The municipal elections this fall will tell a story and if there is a great recession from the majorities given the G. O. P. that will tell something. If there is only a little one it is goodnight for the Democrats and if there is a big one, it is good night for their foes. Wait and see.

IS YOUR BLOOD STARVING FOR WANT OF IRON?

Iron is Red Blood Food—It Helps to Put Strength and Energy Into the Veins of Men and Women. Why Nuxated Iron so Quickly Builds Up Weak, Nervous, Run-Down People.

Thousands of men and women are impairing their constitutions, laying themselves open to illness and literally losing their grip on health, simply because their blood is thinning out and possibly starving through lack of iron. Lack of iron in the blood not only makes a man a physical and mental weakling, nervous, irritable, easily fatigued, but it actually robs him of the virile force that stamps and strength of will which are so necessary to success and power in every walk of life. It may also transform a beautiful, sweet-tempered woman into one who is cross, nervous and irritable. Iron is absolutely essential to enable your blood to transform the food you eat into muscular tissue and brain. It is through iron in the red coloring matter of the blood, that life-sustaining oxygen enters the body. Without iron there is no strength, vitality and endurance to combat obstacles or withstand severe strains. Contrary to general opinion lack of iron in the blood does not necessarily mean you do not have enough blood, but it means your blood is not of the right kind. To help make strong, rich, red-blooded people there is nothing better than organic iron—Nuxated Iron. Unlike the older inorganic iron products it is easily assimilated, does not injure the stomach, make black nor upset the stomach. No matter what other tonics or iron remedies you have used without success, if you are not strong or well you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next, take two five-grain tablets of ordinary Nuxated Iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see how much you have gained. Numbers of nervous, run-down people who were ailing all the while, have increased their strength and endurance in two weeks' time while taking iron in the proper form. Nuxated Iron is now being used by over three million people annually and the manufacturers guarantee successful and entirely satisfactory results to every purchaser or they will refund your money. It is dispensed by all good druggists.—Adv.

COUNTY TO PAVE RIVER BRIDGE

Central-av Structure Claimed to be Disintegrating.

LIGHT POSTS CAMOUFLAGE

South Side Approach, Without Railing, is Dangerous.

Central-ave bridge over the Otta river which councilmen believe to be in danger of disintegration from weather action, is to be paved in the near future by the county, Commissioner A. J. Gray stated Saturday.

The structure was completed, with the exception of lighting and paving, several years ago and has stood in an unfinished condition since.

While making an inspection recently, Councilman Earl Rohn discovered a large fissure extending from the crown of the south arch to the top of the bridge. He believes the damage has been wrought by expansion and contraction due to freezing and thawing. The matter was brought to attention of council at the last meeting.

WAS BUILT BY COUNTY.
The bridge was originally built and paid for by the county. Since it has been found that allo posts for lights were erected on the bridge, they are camouflaged for there is no way of wiring them. Councilman state that iron pipes were embedded in the concrete and the posts built around them.

A committee of council was instructed to look into the matter, but they have not met to date.

Commissioner Gray, however, declared that the commissioners are willing to pave the bridge, but will do nothing toward lighting it at present or protecting the south approach with a railing. The walk at this point is outside of the bridge and a pedestrian might easily walk off a high bank into the river after night-fall.

Paving of the bridge will remedy one of the worst situations in Lima.

OPENING OF BERRYMAN BOULEVARD AFFORDS NEW ENTRY INTO THE CITY

Opening up of Berryman boulevard, from a point near the Tuberculosis hospital to the city limits was authorized by the county commissioners Saturday. The new street will open a new route into the city for residents living in the section known as Berryman's addition.

The commissioners ordered that a plat of the road and a survey be made before September 2, the date of final hearing. No appropriation was granted for the improvement of the road.

For a number of years past the opening of the street to run north and connect with Market-st. has been under consideration. Residents in the section tapped by the new street west and north of Woodlawn and Gethsemani cemeteries will be saved considerable detour, now necessary to get out to roads leading into the city. The territory is outside of the city limits.

MOVIE HOUSE TO HELP KIDDIES

Majestic to Boost Shoe Fund—O. E. S. Donates $50.

South Side school kiddies will not have to go without shoes this winter, if the benefit performances which are to be given at the Majestic theatre, 702 S. Main-st. Wednesday come up to expectations.

Henry Michael, manager of the South Side picture palace, approached the Social Service bureau recently and offered to donate the entire receipts of two performances to purchase of shoes for South Side boys and girls.

In days gone by, the children have been their best patrons, but of late the little folks have not been able to see their screen favorites. The movie man was among the first to see the needs of the children. He told Miss Irene Mills Jackson that every day he saw the children who have no shoes.

When the appeal was made a week ago, he determined to do his part and approached relief workers unsolicited.

The entire theatre will be turned over for the benefit of the children and the receipts will be handled by the social service bureau, which will have its own ticket seller in the box office.

Another source of help to school children came in the past few days from the Eastern Star, Trinity Chapter, No. 16. The organization has donated $50 for purchase of footwear. Worthy cases will be located by the Eastern Star and the shoes bought thru the bureau.

No organized campaign for purchase of shoes can be made at this time, Mrs. Jackson stated Saturday, as the organization is among those which were to receive aid from the community drive last spring. The nine organizations in the drive, pledged themselves not to make further solicitations for money. Volunteer contributions will not be refused, however.

DELPHOS COMPANY ASKS STOCK SALE PERMISSION

Permission to issue $25,000 worth of its capital stock was sought by the Delphos Telephone company Saturday in a petition filed before the public Utilities Commission in Columbus.

Rates for gas fixed by the city council of Van Wert were attacked in an appeal filed with the commission by the Van Wert Gas Light company. The rates fixed by the Van Wert city council are confiscatory, the appeal sets forth.

Hearing in the matter was assigned for October 18.

SCHAFFER SINGS BOOSTER SONG OF WAPAK FAIR IN VISIT TO LIMA SATURDAY

A. E. Schaffer, postmaster at Wapakoneta and secretary of the "Big Auglaize-co Fair" which opens Tuesday for the 1921 show, was in Lima Saturday, putting the finishing touches on the advertising in this section for the Wapak fair and with considerable pride stated that the Auglaize-co fair grounds will compare favorably with any similar plant in this or any other state.

"We have spent more than $25,000 on our grounds during the past season," Schaffer said, "moving all barns and stock pavilions farther south, providing more space for concessions and have erected a new stock show and sales pavilion of concrete, costing many thousands of dollars."

All structures on the ground have been rebuilt and more than 500 gal. of orange and white paint was used in brightening them up, Schaffer said. New fences have been erected and other improvement work done. "Our plant is just like new and we're mighty proud of it," Schaffer said.

Ad. Schaffer is one of the best fair secretaries in Ohio, handling none, race horses and concession men say. Many Lima people will have the opportunity to get verification of the wonderful "Aladdin's Lamp" story. Schaffer talks about the Wapak fair grounds this week, as many people from this city annually attend the Auglaize-co fair.

FUND TRANSFER BOOSTS SATURDAY CLEARINGS

Lima bank clearings for Saturday made a decided jump, due to the transfer of city school board and township funds from the county to the city and township departments, the amounts being paid over by County Treasurer Lehr E. Miller, as settlement from the recent tax collections.

A total of $450,000 was thus transferred, bringing the clearings for the day up to $537,324.54. The clearings a week ago Saturday totaled $94,502.49.

DEPRESSION HITS DAN CUPID

Employment Lack Lessens Licenses and Engagement Rings

With the industrial depression comes a depression in the marriage market and the license clerk, the marrying parson and even the jeweler feel its influence. Love may laugh at Locksmiths, but it can't get by on a flat pocket-book.

Business depression has worked havoc in the love business of Allen-co. Probate court attaches report a great falling off in applications for marriage licenses this year.

"Too many fellows out of a job or afraid they will lose their jobs," is the way Jessie Miller, marriage license clerk, explains it.

Ministers report that the amount of money given by the bridegroom for the marriage ceremony, too, has taken a drop.

"It used to be the usual thing for a man to hand us a $10 bill," one minister said. "Now we usually get $2.50 or $5. The $10 fees are few and far between."

Jewelers say that many matrimonially-inclined fellows are passing up the engagement ring this year and are purchasing the wedding ring, "without the trimmings." "These fellows say they can't afford to sink $250 in an engagement ring and get married, too," according to the clerk of the jewelry store. Some of the men pacify their intended by saying they'll buy the engagement rings when times get better. "That time seldom comes. The money usually goes into a baby carriage. However, the average girl is perfectly willing to be married without an engagement ring," the jeweler relates.

Ring's Sulphur Baths

NOW OPEN TO THE PUBLIC AT 308-310 WEST MARKET ST.

MR. RING SAYS:

I Want Every Tired and Nervous Man and Woman in Lima to try my Sulphur Baths. One of my Sulphur Bath Treatments is as healthful as a ten mile walk.

Mr. Ring, noted Toledo bath expert and proprietor of Ring's Sulphur Bath, says, "There comes a time in every man's or woman's life when nature seems to rebel. When one feels tired, worthless, unable to gather the usual lines when ambition is slow to respond, and the usual vacation becomes a burden, rather than a pleasure; when business becomes an effort and the little irritations that formerly were handled quickly and conscientiously become mountains of worry and sap the very life."

"You go to your doctor and he tells you your system is bad; that your sedentary and monotonous life needs a change. He tells you to walk or ride horseback, chop a cord of wood or go through some physical exertion called exercise. And why does he tell you this? To give you good results brought about by stimulation of the circulation. That is, driving blood through the body in its natural way, opening the sweat glands and eliminating the poison. Do you follow his advice? Not very long. Because it becomes a task."

"The busy man of today who wears out his body and impoverishes his vital force by long hours of service in performance of his duties, never feels like doing the strenuous work involved in the advice."

"But what you want is relief without effort on your part. And you want it under pleasing conditions. We have the kind of relief for you in our Sulphur Bath Treatment. By it you improve the circulation, get the elimination while the body is entirely relaxed. And you get it under the most pleasing surroundings, without a bit of effort on your part."

"It is doubly beneficial because it gives you the rest so necessary and which is not obtained in physical exercise. The Sulphur Bath Treatment is taken under conditions of perfect ease and comfort, without the slightest exertion and in the enjoyment of rest that goes right into the marrow of the bones."

"Now then, over on West Market street I have equipped one of the most private and up-to-date bath institutes of its kind in the state, for you. Come and spend an hour with us during the day and we will send you back to your work instilled with a new spirit and the benefits derived from twelve hour sleep."

BUSINESS CONDITIONS

DISTINCTLY better along general lines is the condition of business over the country, according to the trade reviews. The era of descending prices on the stock market was stopped Friday and money went over the week-end at five per cent. Railroads reporting show an ability to get expenses within receipts, but this has been largely accomplished by economies which can not remain permanent.

The extent of the present mood of business can not be forecast, but the mood is much better. How long it will require for this condition to reach Lima is questionable. There is nothing in sight at our larger industries, and the out of work colony may become greater before it begins to be smaller. Common labor is now down to a 25c per hour basis and skilled labor has reached the place of no set scales, the worker to some extent taking affairs in his own hands as an individual.

Money is slightly easier in both banks and the loaning companies, the recent boost to a six per cent interest rate not being followed by many institutions who recognize that such payment for money means passing it along to the homebuilder in the end. Rentable properties are increasing within the city and there is no immediate demand for new structures, except to replace the old with modern.

Retail trade in Lima is much improved, especially in the dry goods, shoes and ready to wear lines. Furniture is also moving better than a month ago; but luxuries remain slow. Automobile dealers are drawing in on the installment plan sales and unloading their second hand cars wherever possible. Collections are slow; food distributors being hard pressed and restricting charge accounts.

The outlook for fall on the whole can be viewed much more optimistically, with more liberal buying on the part of the consuming public. Real estate remains dull, but there is no unloading of properties and prices on both residence, business and vacant property remain firm.

SWINDLING TRUST UNEARTHED

FRENZIED finance of a Cassie Chadwick or the precarious financial methods of a Charles Ponzi are as nothing compared with the disclosures that are being made in connection with the ferreting out of the plans of a stock swindling trust unearthed within the past few days.

The ramifications of the scheme were so widespread the startling statement is made that had the plans been carried thru to full fruition, failure for 50 or more of the biggest financial institutions of the United States would have been inevitable. Spurious securities in the sum of $21,000,000 have been seized and the ringleaders of the conspiracy are in jail.

Plans were carefully laid and operations had already been started when the crash came. Exposure stopped the sale of millions of dollars worth of worthless bonds thru small banks. Scores of men prominent in the financial world were marked for the slaughter in the big killing.

The number who were ruined by the operations of the combine which foisted worthless securities is small compared to the total that surely would have been piled up had not the bubble burst.

SAFETY FIRST!

MR. MOTORIST, have you planned an automobile trip today? If so, before you start, "charge" your memory with a serious thought concerning the necessity of safety first.

Resolve that you will restrain your inclinations to engage in speed bursts; that you will slow down in passing other cars on the road, obey the laws of the highway, observe well established rules that make for safety, and "Stop, Look and Listen" when approaching a railroad crossing.

Cut out this editorial and paste it on the glass in your windshield.

It is far better to be safe than sorry.

MISS LIMA: "Since Alice Roberson has demonstrated that she has a level head, it is observed that she is out of place in congress."

THE ZR-2 TRAGEDY

PROPERTY loss in the sensational destruction of the British giant Zeppelin, the R-38, to be known as the ZR-2 under American ownership, is nothing compared to the taking of life that attended the catastrophe, altho the loss is many thousands of dollars. What is sacrificed in money can be replaced, but the lives of the pick of the cream of the United States aerial department cannot be returned.

Among the 15 or more Americans who died when the great airship broke in twain and dashed to the earth in flames, were two Allen-co boys, Lieutenant Commander E. W. Coll, formerly of Spencerville, and Lloyd E. Crowl, of this city, a mechanic. Thus the full horror of the tragedy is brought home to people of this city.

Survivors of the tragic end of the greatest dirigible ever built, state that it was carrying too much weight for the strength of the framework. When the great bird of the air buckled and broke, two sections of hydrogen gas exploded and the forward end, shattered and broken, shot downward to the waters of the Humber river over Hull, England, with its precious human freight. Of 49 men aboard, only six escaped alive, one of them an American.

With the beginning of an official inquiry into the cause of the accident, which will be accelerated by the recovery of the framework from the river, there is already well established evidence that representatives of the government of Great Britain were aware of the fact that the framework was defective and that it was freely predicted that the United States government would never be able to take the ship across the expanse of the Atlantic ocean.

There is a lesson in this disaster that all nations will very probably heed. Efforts to overcome danger and still violate well established rules of procedure in aeronautics have failed time and again. The loss of the ZR-2 is the most notable. This experience will very likely result in stopping the building of great unwieldy dirigibles, always at the mercy of storm conditions and particularly dangerous in time of electrical display. The great hangar erected on this side of the Atlantic to house the ZR-2 will probably never be used for the purpose for which it was built.

OWNING YOUR HOME

AT a period when unemployment is keenly felt, the man who owns his own home has a significant advantage over the renter. It seems sheer foolishness for an American to go thru life, working his six days a week and spending his pay-check every Saturday night. Without a home or a house or a fixed background any man is under suspicion. He may be as honest as his neighbor, but he has failed to show he has stamina, and unless he is unusual, he naturally drifts into the wrong viewpoint, and soon is entirely out of line to the right things in life.

We blame no one for not building a home this year, but it would make a better Lima if those who are still renters would start putting ten percent of their wages into the savings banks of the city as the nucleus for a home of their own a few years hence.

The man who cannot save ten percent of his wages, we care not what the wage, is running on a raincheck that sooner or later is cashed by Disappointment.

LESS BEER AND MORE ACTION

CONGRESS has been in extra session since April and the bulk of its time has been taken up discussing Beer. If the cost of Prohibition could be figured accurately in dollars, with the losses in revenue for nation, states and municipalities, the amount would go a long way towards paying the interest on the National debt.

Despite the crying need of 6,000,000 people out of work, the railroad bill which would have done much towards putting half of those men back to work, was permitted to hang over until December, while discussion took place over whether beer should or should not be prescribed as medicine.

Less beer and more action on constructive legislation is a sad need of Washington.

A WIFE IN THE MAKING

By PHELIAS PHILLIPS
ARLINE'S METHODS

"Little spit-fire," he reflected, as he found himself looking at the spot from which Cherry had fled.

Then his thoughts became suddenly concerned with how he should face the fair Arline, after his philanderings of the night before. Ned shook his shoulders once or twice as he walked along towards his office. He felt very penitent for his conduct towards his secretary. It was doubly mean to kiss a girl who was in love with you, that he well knew, and Arline was, and always had been that.

His feet seemed weighted with lead, as he turned them finally into his own factory yard and walked up the steps to his office in a state of apprehension.

Arline rose up cool and fluffy to greet him as he entered. "She looked like a white rose, dewy-eyed and altogether lovely," Ned was grateful for her evident "forgetfulness" of his advances of the night before. After all, Arline was a sensible girl. She was not one of your silly, reproachful, hysterical women, who took advantage of a fellow's weakness to further her own interests. She was "square," and played a fair game always. It was a damned shame that she could not find some man to really love, for she would make such a man a wonderful wife. Poor little Arline!

"Good morning, Arline," he said, he vowed, despite his thoughts of her. "I hope you had a good night's rest, and feel like some hard work this morning, for we have plenty to tackle."

"I feel simply marvelous today, Ned," she answered, letting her lashes sweep her cheeks in a way he had often admired in the dim past, but she said nothing more.

"The family seemed a little bit out of kink at breakfast just now," Ned volunteered. "Too much party, I guess. Now you look as calm and fresh as ever. Funny how some women show the marks of a few late hours."

"Yes, Cherry did look a bit faded when I saw her just now," said Arline, evenly, looking over a pile of correspondence as she spoke. "And yet she is a city girl and I should think used to late hours and everything else that go to make up city ways."

health and unbounded energy in every line of her young figure.

"Come, now, Ned, I'm all ready. Here's an awful bunch of letters we must get off to Chicago today. Put on your thinking cap and forget there was such a thing as a living dance last night," shutting her eyes momentarily for half an instant as she said this and coloring ever so slightly as if in response to some emotion stronger than herself in its intensity. (To be continued.)

We are chawmed to note that Arnold Bennett has joined in the skirt controversy. We never had supposed that Arnold took any cognizance of such things or that he would ever know that such a controversy was going on, but it appears that he, like the rest of us, has been rather more or less observing. He openly defends the present style, and says in addition that men dress more foolishly than women. His expert opinion is that skirts are not immodest if they do not pass the knee. But does he mean they would be immodest if they passed the knee on the way upward or immodest if they passed the knee on the way downward? We hope the old topper will come across with an explanation, for we would jolly well like to know.

JUST FOLKS—BY EDGAR A. GUEST

AT THE OFFICE WITH DAD

Most fun I ever had
Was goin' down to work with Dad.
Nothing ever pleased me so,
As when he'd smile and say, "Let's go
To the office, and maybe
You can do some things for me."
Then he'd always act as tho
I was big and had to go.

Now I'm old and wiser grown,
With a youngster of my own,
And at times that little lad
Begs to go to work with Dad;
Likes to occupy a chair
In the downtown office, where Everything seems strange and new,
And there's such a lot to do.

Met the janitor, and he Showed most everything to me;
Met the president who said
That his little boy was dead,
And my father should be glad
Still to have his little lad,
And he sighed and wiped his eye,
Now I understand just why.

So I take him now an' then
Down among the busy men,
And the boy that is with me
Brings back one who used to be,
With the bright smile and the glow
In the eyes of long ago,
When I was a little lad
Goin' down to work with Dad.

GET READY FOR SCHOOL

NO SHORTAGE OF TEACHERS HERE

Applicants Aplenty for City School Positions.

ASSIGNMENTS NOT MADE

Examples of Learning Open On Tuesday, September 6.

With the speed of Mercury, vacation days are drawing to a close as the opening of the school year approaches. All Lima schools will follow the usual custom and open a day after Labor Day. This year the opening date is September 6. School officials have practically finished all preliminary plans for the school year. A sufficient number of teachers is assured for all schools.

More applications to teach have been received this year by the Lima school heads than ever before in the history of the schools. This is the custom throughout the country.

Due to the present industrial depression, a great number of teachers who held other positions during the war period are turning back to the teaching profession. There will be no trouble of a shortage of good teachers this year as has prevailed recently.

TEACHERS NOT ASSIGNED
Lima teachers have not yet been assigned their classes. The assignments will be made at an all-city teachers' meeting to be held in the central high school auditorium on Labor Day.

Necessary repairs have been made to all school buildings and they are now in readiness to receive their quota of students.

Preparations for several of the high school activities for this year are under way. Officers of all clubs and societies elected last year have completed plans for the work this year. The Mirror, the Central High school monthly magazine, and the Linbow, the South High school paper, will publish September issues usual.

The staffs of these two publications are now working on their first issues. Debating and dramatic clubs will again play an active part in the high schools this year.

The football schedules for both high schools have practically been completed and preliminary practice will start soon after school opens. A expected, excellent material promises to develop stronger teams this year than formerly.

TRIP SCHEDULES ASSURED
The schools will have their usual schedules this year, as they have been away from the old Trolley route and will meet teams from other cities. The two schools will start for the big game of the season on Thanksgiving day.

No important changes will be made this year in the school curriculum. The same studies that were taught last year will still be the schedule for the coming year.

Students have been busy the past week arranging their schedules for the year with Principals R. E. Oshauer, of Central, and Roudesh, of South High.

A few changes will probably be made, the majority of the former changes are expected to hold their positions this year.

Some of the schools of the county, side of Lima, will open on Labor Day, September 5, and others on Saturday, the 6th, County Superintendent C. A. Arganbright announced today.

So far as was known Saturday, Arganbright stated, all schools in the county district are supplied with books for the fall and winter months, possibly with the exception of one school each in American, Aman and Sugar Creek towns.

TEACHER TEST IS TAKEN BY 27

Forty-Nine Apply For Certificates as School Instructors.

Teachers for the Allen-co schools this year are rapidly being selected. Applications of 39 teachers were received by the county school heads in teachers' examination held Friday at the Central High school building.

If the 39 there were 27 who took the examination. The others sufficient training to admit them to teaching without taking the tests. Twenty-seven men were among the 39 applicants.

Three of the applicants were for high school certificates, while the others were for grade schools. The county teachers' examination this year will be held Saturday, September 3.

Other examinations will be held the first Saturday in May, 1922. The examination next Saturday will apply all county schools with teaching according to County School Superintendent C. A. Arganbright.

A great number of applications have been received this year and a sufficient number of good teachers has been available. The shortage in teachers of the past few years will prevail this year, Arganbright stated.

GOVERNOR'S

September 17 Formally Designated as "Constitution Day."

DOCUMENT WRECK

ts Nullifiers Considered
—Ohio Political Resume.

THE LIMA NEWS BUREAU
Columbus, August 27.

COLUMBUS.—(Special).—There is encouragement for friends of the constitution in the proclamation of Governor Harry L. Davis for September 17 as "Constitution Day," specifically devoted to the study of the United States and just as applicable for the study of the Constitution of the State of Ohio. More so, perhaps, because the improved and amended Constitution was adopted September 3, 1912, and the great statement of 1851 made modern to conform to the growth of industrial, economic and political democracy; the democracy that doubtless was an ultimate ideal of the patriots that framed the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the United States. In giving study to the constitution it will naturally fall that the perils which confront it may be studied, its enemies without and within. Much has been heard in recent years of the "chambers, parlor and those of red tie, as enemies within. The Governor's proclamation will incite study of these and other elements, as dangerous perhaps, because they appear to be friends.

Let us consider, for instance, the nullifiers of the Constitution. Where are they to be found? If they alone are to be found in the ranks of the old radicals, they may easily be ignored and it will not require a great amount of force to deal with them. Are they otherwise or elsewhere? Let the question be answered by Governor, lawmaker and Supreme court judge. Can all appear before the people and say: "I swear uphold and defend the Constitution of Ohio, I have fulfilled my pledges for things to be done, but I receive few statements that my pledges have been kept. But in such statements be made? Will they be made? The Governor has called for a study and public study of the Constitution, so a little inquiry may not be out of place. Subtlety it would be difficult to find him or the Supreme court judges go into the question of their adherence to solemn pledges. The Governor at this day seldom mentions the manner in which he defeated one part of the Constitution, the referendum provision, but the majority judges of the Ohio Supreme court never mention the subject. They cannot be avoided to mention it. They have avoided it in public, in the cloistered precincts of the consultation room, in private conversation.

It may also encourage friends of institutional government to learn at the head of one co-ordinate branch of the state government, Chief Justice C. T. Marshall, will probably have spoken ere Constitution Day in defense of the Constitution of Ohio and against inroads from what source they have been planned. There are hopes in the breasts of the men to put thru the emergency clause the re-organization ripper bill. Judge Marshall might be silent, such a condition was not to be used. Marshall speaks out. To interest, three judges who demand for spoils might debate on Constitution Day with those who demand that the highest constitutional law is expressed in the words of song, "We Want What We Want when We Want It." What could be done to make the people more reverence the sacred Constitution?

It should be imputed to this name of the people that he is not content in the recording of this history, let it be said now that he is, fully so. There is no reason for being otherwise. "Back to the constitution" was a good slogan in its gone by and it is a good slogan now. The friends of progress get back to the constitution. It is a means of amending it and detecting it using the constitution means provided for that purpose. The enemies of progress say as they? If they can, then why the name on the ripper decision? Not a single man has spoken for it, not a single man has lifted up his voice and until Governor Davis began Constitution Day there every effort to let it drop out of mind. Even the Governor may

SCHOOL BOARD

E. B. Taylor To File Petition
Within Few Days.

IS INDEPENDENT CANDIDATE

Opposition for Austin and Hughes Develops.

E. B. Taylor, 742 W. Spring-st., representative of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass company, announced Saturday night that his petition as an independent candidate for member of the school board of Lima is near ready for filing.

"I have almost the required number of names," Taylor said Saturday, "and expect to file the petition in the office of the board of elections some time this week, before September 3, the final date to come within the required time of 60 days before the election, under the law.

Taylor's appearance in the field as an aspirant for place on the school board assures that Ralph W. Austin and Homer Hughes, Republicans, nominated on August 9 in the primary election, will have opposition. There are two members of the board to be elected. Taylor is a Democrat, but will make his campaign as an independent, carrying out the intent of the law in choosing of school board members, which contemplated keeping the school board out of politics.

The latest entrant for school board honors has been a resident of Lima a number of years and has four children in school. One of the members of his household graduated last spring from Lima high school.

A report gained circulation Saturday that Mrs. W. B. Kirk, 1123 Rice-ave, would also be an independent candidate for member of the school board. Mrs. Kirk was absent from the city Saturday and could not be reached for confirmation or denial of the report. Near friends of Mrs. Kirk, however, denied that she intended seeking place on the board.

It is expected, according to statements made Saturday night from the office of the board of elections, that there will be at least one other candidate for school board.

PAIR INJURED IN
AUTO CRASH

Indiana People Run Down In
Main-st by Interurban Car.

Two persons narrowly escaped injuries Saturday afternoon when interurban freight car No. 760 struck an Overland automobile occupied by Mr. and Mrs. John Betz, St. Joe, Ind., at Main and McKibben-sts. Betz was driving the auto. The couple were visiting Mr. Betz's nephew, W. F. Reichelderfer, 613 N. Metcalf-st. J. W. Hunt, was conductor on the interurban car which collided with the machine.

According to witnesses, Betz was proceeding east on McKibben-st. while the interurban car was going south. Apparently Betz did not see the car until too late to avoid it. The car struck the machine about three feet from the radiator. Mrs. Betz, seeing the collision was unavoidable, attempted to jump. She failed to free the auto, and was dragged several feet, witnesses say.

Betz stayed with the machine. An ambulance was rushed to the scene and conveyed Betz and his wife to the home of their nephew, where an examination disclosed no serious injuries. Betz is 50 and Mrs. Betz is 48.

The left front wheel of the automobile was broken and the hood and radiator badly damaged.

7 Deaths In Maryland
Claimed Due to Plane
Manufacturers' Plans

PROBERS REPORT

Aerial League Submits Findings In Wreck to Attorney General

NEW YORK.—Seven victims of the aerial tragedy at Morgantown, Md., last May, were killed in an ill-fated "propaganda flight," President Henry Woodhouse, of the Aerial League of America, charged in a report to Attorney General Daugherty Saturday night.

Colonel Archie Miller and six others were killed when in returning from Langley Field in an "Eagle" army ambulance plane, the machine crashed in a terrific storm.

"The flights," Woodhouse charged, "were arranged by agents of a clique of aircraft manufacturers at great expense for the purpose of spreading propaganda among members of congress to support schemes for larger aeronautic appropriations and retard grand jury investigation of apparent frauds in army aircraft contracts.

Woodhouse presented his report as part of an investigation requested by the department of justice into the destruction of government airplanes and other property.

"Even God was libeled," Woodhouse wrote. He declared that the facts in the case were suppressed in the official report of the accident to the secretary of war, to whom the tragedy was represented as "an act of God."

The following points were made in the Woodhouse report:

"The Eagle plane was an experimental plane illegally purchased without a call for bids.

"The air service did not need the ambulance as a special aerial ambulance had been developed by air service engineers."

"To carry out its propaganda flight, Woodhouse charged, the ambulance plane was stripped of its fittings, which were replaced by loose camp stools "on which the victims of this horrible tragedy sat in the eventful flight which ended in their deaths."

In the morning flight to Langley Field, the passengers included two members of congress, Philip P. Campbell, of Kansas, and Joseph Walsh, of Massachusetts, who were invited guests.

"The flight was undertaken despite the warnings of the impending storm transmitted to the Langley Field and other aviation fields by the United States weather bureau."

The morning flight from Washington to Langley Field proved the airplane was unbalanced and the air "bumpy" and the loose stools used as seats were wobbly and the congressmen and the French air attaché, Captain Lavergne, wisely declined flying back to Washington that afternoon.

THROWN FROM STOOLS

"The only obvious deductions regarding the causes of the tragedy are that when the aerial ambulance ran into the windstorm near Morgantown, before it crashed, the pilot flew low and circled about seeking a landing place, and as the airplane tipped and nosed down the loose camp stools slid forward, throwing the passengers in a heap on the pilot and the plane was plunged downward by their weight and struck the ground.

"Nothing else can explain the failure of the pilot to shut off the engine, which is the mechanical cause of the actual killing of the seven men."

"The pilot's inability to shut off the engine turned the aeroplane's power plant into a murderous machine which pounded, tore and ground the bodies into an unrecognizable mass."

Woodhouse said that extraordinary influence was brought to bear on officers and others who could have cleared up the mystery of the tragedy and that "unlawful practices" were resorted to in suppressing the evidence.

Woodhouse also charged the use of intoxicants at Langley Field prior to the return trip.

BANDIT SOLD

Auto, Diamond Pin and Ring
Bought by Toledo Man.

BANDIT'S DEATH RECALLED

Mother Pleads For Personal Effects of Son.

A large Mercer automobile, contracted for by Raleigh Ross Townsend, member of the McGahan-Townsend bandit gang, killed in a running gun battle with police in Lima on May 21, was sold Saturday afternoon at public auction to Edward Miller, Toledo, representing the Toledo Mercer-Roamer Car company, Madison-ave.

Miller purchased a diamond ring and diamond pin in possession of Townsend when he met death.

The automobile was appraised at $3,500 and brought $2,500. It is almost new and sold originally for $5,350. The car was practically unused. Miller had brought it to Lima to turn over to Townsend the day he was killed. Townsend had traded his Marmon automobile for the car. There was $1,800 due on the machine. By payment of $700, Miller secured the car.

The diamond pin was appraised at $500 and brought $405. The diamond ring, appraised at $400, was sold for $320.

WATCH BOUGHT FOR MOTHER

Attorney Francis W. Durbin, acting for Mrs. Bert Townsend, the mother, Douthat, Okla., bid in the watch at $70. It was appraised at $60.

Clothes and intimate personal property of Townsend will be sent his mother by Roy Bowersock, administrator of the estate. It will be marked at two-thirds the appraised value and charged to the distributive share of the mother.

There was but one other bidder against Miller, said to have been John Felt, Bluffton.

Mrs. Townsend has written most appealing letters to Assistant Prosecuting Attorney, R. R. Trubey. In one she says: "Please send me all the clothes and keepsakes of my son, for I have nothing to remember my darling boy."

Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Trubey will see to it that Mrs. Townsend's request is complied with. He will send the clothing, watch and keepsakes on their home journey the first of the week.

BOY CLIMB IN TRANSIT

Body of Townsend was badly lacerated in shipping to his home the week after he was killed. In almost every letter Mrs. Townsend refers to this and tells of the cuts inflicted on her boy's face disclosed when the casket was opened there. The glass of the casket had been broken in transportation and Townsend's face was a mass of cuts, the mother says, when she viewed the body upon its arrival at John Mo., where the funeral was held, before the body was removed to Douthat, a few miles away, for burial.

MUSICAL COMEDY DAMSEL
DOESN'T LIKE TACTICS
OF LIMA'S POLICEMAN

Pearl Wallace, 26, a member of the musical comedy which played at the Orpheum theatre last week, doesn't like the tactics used by Policemans Van Gunten, so she registered a complaint with Night Captain Dawson of police headquarters.

Pearl declares, after the show Wednesday night, she was with a party in a local restaurant. It was near the witching hour. In walked the policeman, Pearl being petite and young looking, became the prey of Mrs. Van Gunten, so Pearl says.

The policeman escorted Pearl from the restaurant, according to other young woman's story, and haled her into juvenile court. There her true age developed.

"I'm old enough to attend to my own business," Pearl told Captain Dawson, Friday night. "I was humiliated. Since the episode I am being pointed out by persons on the street. I know, show people like publicity, but not that kind. I'm not telling you what I'm thinking about your police women."

FATE OF IRISH
IN HANDS OF
SINN FEINERS

Next Peace Move Shifted to Dublin by Lloyd
George's Reply

PARLEY PLANNED

De Valera Expected to Visit
London this Week for Another Conference

DUBLIN. — "The situation is no worse than it was before Lloyd George's reply came," a member of the Dail Eireann declared Saturday night, after two momentous meetings, one of the Sinn Fein cabinet, the other of its parliament, had failed to come to definite conclusion regarding the next step in the Irish controversy.

The next move is up to Sinn Fein, and it was believed here that De Valera and other republican leaders would go to London next week for a conference with Lloyd George.

Dispute as to what concessions on the part of Britain are to be considered the basis for further negotiations could be obliterated, it was pointed out here by the Irish leaders simply going to Downing-st and talking the matter over after they got thru.

This, or rejection of further discussion and resumption of active warfare was the only thing left to be done, it was agreed.

OPTIMISM APPARENT

Among members of the Dail and the general public here, a feeling of optimism continued to be apparent, its source could not be discovered, but its sincerity was undoubted. The Irish people hope for the best and trust their leaders to get the most possible for them.

This was the tone of the Irish press Saturday afternoon, the Evening Telegram and the Herald declaring that the door to peace, however it may have been slammed, is not bolted, and saying editorially that Ireland trusts her leaders, to settle matters without further bloodshed. The Irish Times suggests that a plebiscite be held and says that Lloyd George's letter demands a decisive and immediate reply.

The Freeman's Journal and the Irish Independent urge that Lloyd George modify his terms to meet the demands of the Irish leaders so that peace negotiations can go on.

IMPORTANT SESSIONS

Two important sessions were held here during the day. The inner circle of Sinn Fein met in secret. De Valera, Griffith, O'Neill, Collins and Keogh were among those present.

Whatever they decided was not announced. It was believed that their discussions of the latest Lloyd George letter was not completed.

Later the Dail Eireann met and its session was also secret and unfinished.

It was recognized here that a further spurning of the British proposals meant war. Reports of Lloyd George's speech at Barmsey left no doubt of that.

The British premier's declarations of Saturday afternoon were not considered to have further complicated the situation, however.

Irish leaders found no difficulty in picking the Barmsey speech to pieces with figurative argument. LLOYD GEORGE'S PLEA

BARNSELY, England. — All hope of Irish settlement must be abandoned if Ireland insists upon separation, David Lloyd George, receiving the freedom of the borough of Barnsley declared today.

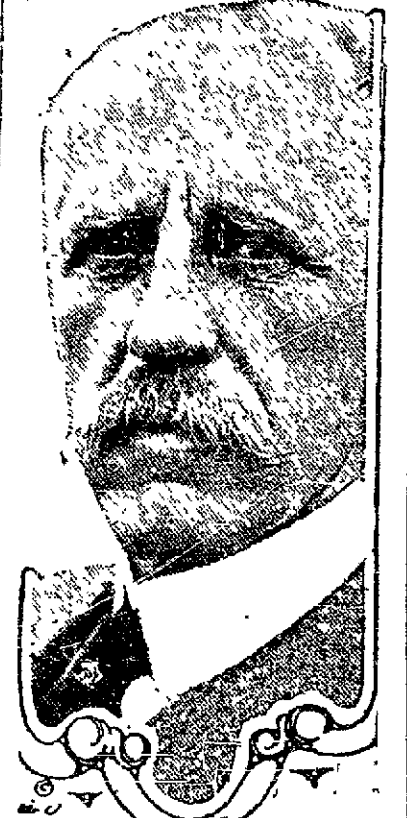

The British premier pleaded for common sense and exclaimed: "For God's sake, let us set aside all prejudices! Britain has risen above prejudices, I am proud to say. The proposed terms are more generous than any ever before proposed. They are different from any other terms. They commend themselves to the whole of the civilized world. 'I trust that common sense may prevail.'

"We cannot countenance this separation, tearing up the United Kingdom, any more than America would countenance the tearing up of the United States."

"Civil war in Ireland would follow a severance from the United Kingdom."

"If Ireland has the right to separate herself from us, so have Scotland and Wales."

"I believe that when the Irish people realize that it is real freedom which is being offered them they will appreciate that their dealing is greater as a free people inside a federation of free peoples."

DIRECTS RUSSIAN
FAMINE RELIEF FOR RED CROSS UNION

Dr. Fridtjof Nansen, of Norway, the famous polar explorer, has been selected by the Red Cross Union to direct Russian famine relief. He is now in Riga. Dr. Nansen asserts that if help is to be on a scale large enough to be of real benefit it must be governmental, not merely voluntary.

BULK OF ESTATE

Timothy Spellacy Will In Pro-bated In Los Angeles.

RELATIVES ARE REMEMBERED

Nieces Also Share in Property of Late Oil Baron.

Mrs. Elizabeth Spellacy, Los Angeles, Calif., will inherit the bulk of the estate of her husband, the late Timothy Spellacy, oil baron and politician who died at St. Rita's hospital in Lima July 28, it was announced Saturday night by Simon Spellacy, 523 W. North-st, a brother.

The will of the decedent filed in probate court in Los Angeles recently, gives the residence in E. Normandie-ave. in that city to the widow, as well as half of the property, said to be valued at several millions.

Martin J. Spellacy, Hollywood, Calif., who is now in the east, but is expected to return to Lima in about a week, will receive $10,000 in cash. He is the eldest of four surviving brothers.

SISTER AND NIECES SHARE

Mrs. Mary Mooney, Hollywood, Calif., a sister and five nieces will share the remainder of the estate.

According to reports from Los Angeles, telling of the probating of the will, the total value of the estate is not made public.

Michael Spellacy, Tulsa, made a 1100 mile airplane flight to reach the bedside of his dying brother, but arrived in Lima too late.

Timothy Spellacy was one of the pioneer oil men in Ohio and 20 years ago followed the field to California, where he acquired extensive leases near Bakersfield. He was interested in leases and holdings amounting to 50,000 acres in Mexico at the time of his death.

LABOR FEDERATION PLANS
POLITICAL ORGANIZATION

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. — Organized labor Saturday took steps to make its full political strength felt. The executive council of the American Federation of Labor, in session here, formulated plans for a permanent non-partisan political organization to support candidates favorable to labor in local, state and national elections.

The federation had such an organization during the last campaign. Labor leaders claim their efforts brought the defeat of a score of congressmen unfriendly to labor.

The executive council also instructed a committee to investigate all bills before congress that affect labor or interests. The findings of these investigations will be transmitted to local unions which will be urged to either support or fight the bills by bringing pressure on their representatives in congress.

FORTY PERSONS KILLED
IN ITALY RAIL WRECK

MAGLIANA, Italy — Forty persons were reported killed when a passenger train crashed into a freight train near here Saturday.

Scores were injured in the wreck. A Red Cross train was immediately prepared and is being rushed to the scene of the disaster.

Most of the passengers were on their way to the seacoast for week-end vacations.

RAILROADERS
PREPARE FOR
BIG WALKOUT

Critical Stage Reached In Differences Between Companies and Employees

SPLIT ON WAGES

Workers Object to Cuts In Pay and Schedule of Hours

CHICAGO.—Preparations for possible strike of 2,000,000 railroad workers of the country were reported under way Saturday night by both union leaders and employers. Serious differences between the railroads and their workers over wages and hours of work have reached such a critical point that leaders of the workers' organizations have warned their members to get set for a strike, and railroad managers are arranging to meet the emergency.

A strike vote has been taken by only one branch of the railroad workers — the Federated Shop Crafts, with 600,000 members. Heads of this union have carried a strike vote around in their pockets since the wage cuts of last July, and the recent decision of the federal labor board that all Sunday work must be paid for at regular rates, instead of as overtime, unless done in an emergency, has led to the flashing of the vote.

WILL REJECT CUT

The Federated Shop Crafts will not call a strike, however, until the vote of the big four railroad brotherhoods, on the question of accepting a wage reduction or calling a strike, taken Union leaders here Saturday night, in touch with the railroad situation, predicted the wage cut will be rejected by a large vote of the big four brotherhoods membership and that a strike will be ordered unless the railroad management makes further concessions.

The Federated Shop Crafts have ordered their membership to get their house in order for a walkout. The men have been instructed to lay in supplies of food, save their money and get their local union organizations in strong condition.

RAILROADS FIGHT

Railroads, in meeting the strike threat, have started putting their shops in the hands of local business men and putting them on an open shop basis. By placing their shops under the direction of organizations which are not carriers, the railroads technically escape rulings of the United States railroad labor board, as the shops do not come under the board's jurisdiction when not actually operated by the roads.

Refusal of some railroads, notably the Pennsylvania, to comply with orders of the board, demanding that working agreements be drawn up at conferences between union representatives and employers, has further irritated the men.

CONFERENCE ASKED

The Federated Shop Crafts have sought conferences with the railroad management in an attempt to negotiate the board's ruling regarding overtime for Sunday work. In case the employers refuse to negotiate the shop crafts will be ready to strike. Men have been instructed by E. M. Jewell, president of the railroad department of the American Federation of Labor, to stay at work until an attempt is made to carry on the negotiations.

In the meantime the big four will be taking their strike vote and the entire situation will hang on the outcome of this sounding out of sentiment of the railroad workers.

AMERICANS SLAIN
BY MEXICANS

Arizona Postmaster and Wife
Murdered by Bandits.

NOGALES, Ariz.—Search on both sides of the international line continued Saturday night for the Mexican bandit gang that shot and killed Frank J. Pearson and his wife and seriously wounded Mrs. Pearson's sister at Ruby, Ariz.

Several posess under leadership of Sheriff George White, of Santa Cruz-co, were encamped in the hills along the American side of the line, lying in wait for the brigands in case they should attempt to cross the border.

Guardia Rurales on the Mexican side of the line were scouring the northern side of Sonora and Chihuahua.

The bandits, seven in number, were seen by American scouts to cross the Arizona-Sonora line Saturday morning.

Pearson and wife, who were killed while the raiders looted the Ruby postoffice and general store, leave a five-year-old baby girl.

Miss Irene Purcell, Mrs. Pearson's sister, is still in a serious condition at a hospital here.

She was shot thru the left hand and side.

SCHOOL OPENS TUESDAY SEPT. 6th.

PROF. WINTERS TO SPEAK HERE

Head of Teacher Training Bureau to Attend Institute.

Allen-co teachers' Institute will open Monday at the Central High School building. Over 100 teachers are expected to attend.

As formerly, two lecturers have been secured for the sessions. There will be four lectures a day, two by each speaker. The lecturers for this year are Professor M. A. Leiper of Bowling Green, Kentucky, and Dean H. C. Minnich of the Normal College at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio.

Prof. M. A. Leiper was one of the lecturers at the institute last year and was well liked by the teachers. He is an English specialist and his lecturers will probably be on the value and the correct way of using the English language.

Dean Minnich is an expert on school administration and his subjects will be on the methods and administration of schools. The sessions will close on Friday.

On Thursday, Prof. T. H. Winters, head of the teachers' training bureau of the state department of education, will be present and will deliver a lecture.

His subject will probably concern the work of the state in the teacher training bureau. He is also state inspector of teacher training credits and inspects all training reports before a certificate can be given. He also inspects all the county normal schools and the normal departments of the colleges in the state.

C. C. Ludwig of Delphos, father of L. E. Ludwig, Lima attorney, and the oldest teacher in the county in point of years of service will preside at the sessions. County superintendent C. A. Arganbright will preside one day, according to a provision in the school laws.

COUNTY HEALTHIER TO CONDUCT WAR AGAINST DISEASE IN SCHOOLS

The Allen-co Health department, under the direction of Dr. J. J. Sutter, district health commissioner, is planning a campaign against possible sickness in the county schools this year.

Pamphlets, charts, etc., showing the symptoms and indications of communicable diseases, are to be sent to all county teachers. Requests will be issued by the health department that all school rooms be kept in a cleanly condition and that special care be taken in keeping the rooms free from anything that might cause disease or sickness.

Teachers will be required to receive certificates when a student returns to school after a period of illness. If the sickness is communicable, the certificates must emanate from the health board.

Dr. Sutter believes that a great amount of sickness in children during the school year can be eliminated if proper care and precautions are taken. The health department is determined to eliminate all sickness possible from the school rooms this year.

SOCIAL SERVICE BUREAU TO OPEN SEWING SCHOOL; CLOTHING FOR CHILDREN

Papa's pants will soon fit Little Willie.

That is, they will when sundry worn portions are eliminated and the remainder remodeled on less Herculean proportions.

All this is to come about as result of a series of lessons in manufacture of trousers, which are to be conducted under direction of the Social Service bureau.

While many mothers can sew well enough when it comes to making women's garments, it has been found by social workers that with all too many, remaking men's clothing into garments for small boys is a lost art.

Machines have been obtained and on Thursday a class will be held at the Chamber of Commerce auditorium under the direction of Mrs. H. N. Wigglesworth. All women who wish to learn to sew will be given instructions. A competent garment maker will show them the fine points.

All persons wishing to contribute old garments will cut them up, eliminating the worn parts and send them to the bureau by Wednesday. The class will enable many children to start to school this fall in good clothing.

Children's Eyes Need Constant Watching

Children frequently misuse their eyes during the period when they are most susceptible to injury. Parents are often to be blamed for this condition.

The normal eye is not harmed by hard usage, but the growing eye, if defective in vision, may be permanently impaired by hard school work.

The only safe way is to have their eyes examined at the very first indication of trouble. We will be glad to do this for you.

NOTICE!

This message is important to every parent and school child.

Thanking God for having eyes with which to see, and then abusing them eight hours a day doesn't sound consistent.

The way some people treat their eyes would lead one to think that new ones could be bought anywhere, any time, at about 25 cents a pair.

People actually dilly dally with one of the most precious assets with which they are endowed. For instance: How much could you earn today if you should suddenly become blind?

But you don't have to become wholly blind to reduce the value of your vision. In this highly organized and specialized world of today you've got to put things over a little better than the other fellow to keep the world coming your way.

Poor vision will show you up and let the other fellow pass.

If you have been leaving the job with headache and getting a generally rotten feeling during the day, consider these conditions, advance notice from a couple of disgruntled eyes; but they are becoming impatient at their condition of employment and are going on a strike!

Wisdom would suggest arbitration. They'll remain loyal employees if you meet them half way!

A visit here—a careful examination—a pair of properly fitted glasses—will put them in a cheerful mood once more.

Young People Preparing For Their Return to College—
Cool Temperature Will Be Incentive for Resumption of Social Whirl—Plans Outlined

(By ROSEMARY CHRISTEN)

SEPTEMBER—one of the busiest months of the year for women of the social world, is rapidly approaching and plans for the delightful autumn months are being formulated. Young people are beginning to prepare for college. Wardrobes must be replenished with the attractive, fascinating and tempting assortment of modes, which are displayed in the shops.

The coming week will, no doubt, greatly surpass the past half fortnight in variety of social functions, as well as in the number.

An interesting affair scheduled for Tuesday afternoon is the Bridge-Thimble party to be given under the auspices of Trinity Chapter No. 16, O. E. S. The affair will take place at the Masonic Hall. The committee in charge includes: Mrs. George Kirk, Mrs. W. G. Graham, Mrs. C. E. Reeves, Mrs. F. H. Martin, Mrs. H. M. Kamerer, Mrs. A. H. Beecher, Mrs. H. L. De Witt and Mrs. J. A. Gorrell.

Wednesday evening the members of the Strollers' club are entertaining with a dinner dance at the Shawnee Country Club.

ENGAGEMENT IS ANNOUNCED IN PRETTY EVENT

Forthcoming Marriage of Miss Marian Dunn and Ensign
Ralph Sweeney Made Known at 5 O'clock Tea
Given by Miss Dorothy Collins, Saturday

ALTHOUGH few large social events marked last week's calendar, the time passed quickly for everyone.

Doubtless, one of the most attractive of the social affairs of the week was the prettily appointed 5 o'clock tea given Saturday by Miss Dorothy Collins, to announce the date of the marriage of Miss Marian Dunn to Ensign Ralph Sweeney. The affair was given in the private dining room at the Elks' Home. Small tables were effectively arranged and pink roses adorned each. Nut baskets and place cards were pretty affairs and a pleasing tone was added by pink candles in crystal holders. At each cover was a dainty white leather book. Contained within was the following: "M. D. to R. S., September third, Nineteen Hundred and Twenty One."

Miss Collins' guests included: Misses Marian Dunn, Bess Sharpley, Nellie Bigley, Eloise Cunningham, Margaret Graham, Betty Laughlin, Gertrude Boose, Marian Crispin, of Findlay; Helen Basinger, Lura Mae Gallaspie, Clara Bell, Martha Roby, Florence Price, Dorothy Hunter, Charlotte Sieber, Mary Farmer, Katherine Senafer, Madeline Stolzenbach, Josephine Garretson, Mary K. A SMART
AND DISTINCTIVE MODEL FROM

THE FROCK SHOP

Worth has given us many coat models this season, but surely this one of navy Poiret twill is the most charming of them all. It is loose, straight backed, and almost severely tailored, but the effect is broken by the small girdle that loops at the side. The long roll collar and the bell flared cuffs are embroidered in blue silk in an informal design. Its waist is of embroidered silk net, and strikes a contrast to the severity of the mode. Truly graceful—and one of the most popular of the Parisian creations of this season.

SUGGESTIONS—

For a Black Gown

When Paris decided to be colorful—none more gay than she!
And when Paris decided to be sombre—she is sombre indeed!
And when Paris chooses black—why black it is!
And so Paris has done this season.
But despite the seriousness of the mode, Youth is as dominant as ever.
And so for the black gown we suggest:

Materials—
Plain and satin Canton crepe, 40 inches wide, which can attribute its popularity to the straight sack-like gown. The prices are very reasonable too, from $4.00 to $4.50.
Chenille Satin—which has the appearance of a chiffon velvet, with a very high sheen. Priced at $4.50 a yard.
Char Ming Satin—has a pebble crepe back, with a very soft faced finish. As youthful as black can appear and very smart. $5.50.
Satin broadcloth—the very best thing for a paneled gown. As beautiful as it is unusual this year. $5.50.
For the tailored gown we have chinilla satin, duvetyne, snow crepe, sea wave, chiffon broadcloth, Poiret twill, and many other weaves at various prices.

Finishing Touches—

The Fall frock is indeed so sombre that it is only touched with a hint of gaiety. A few there are that are elaborately trimmed but they are almost unusual in silk and strike a contrast against the simple straight line mode.
Fringe, a graceful flounce for the draped gown. It is worn up to 18 inches in width. Braids, the most popular trimming of the season, in plain black or color that will relieve the severity of the black gown.
Motifs of head, silk or wool, that can be used in profusion on the simple girlish model. They finish the long side panel characteristically.
Tassels, perhaps the most wanted article of trimming—we are showing them in profusion up to 18 inches long.
Cord girdles—the finishing touch at the waist of a frock can be had with a touch of bright color or in plain black. They are braided, and end with a handsome tassel.
Laces in bandings, motifs, and a few of ecru to the vestee of the tailored gown.

HUSBAND ASKS NEW CHANCE

Deserted Family, Now Wants to Go Back
To Housekeeping

Wife Is Advised to Grant His Plea,
By All Means

MY HUSBAND left me and our small son about a year ago and I broke up housekeeping. For a long time he went around with other women. He got so he didn't care about anything and became shiftless. I always did housekeeping and it was somewhat of a relief to me to have it up. Now my husband is beginning to realize his mistake and wants to go back to housekeeping and start over again. I haven't exactly decided what I will do. I told him I didn't have to do just as he said and live in to him. He said he would get a divorce if I do not go to housekeeping. What do you think I should do? I thought I could afford to be stubborn after what he has done.

A WIFE

ABOVE all things, go back to your husband, begin housekeeping and make your marriage the success it should be. Never refuse to give your husband a second opportunity to prove himself a man, when he wishes to start anew. You say you think you can afford to be stubborn. Do you realize that stubbornness is one of the most hateful, childish, worthless and dangerous traits one can have? One cannot, under any circumstances, afford to be stubborn when the future happiness and welfare of three persons is involved.

Think of your son! Don't be selfish! He needs his father's companionship!

Your husband wronged you when he left you and paid attention to other women, but perhaps you were just a trifle to blame for this unfortunate situation. You say you never cared much for housekeeping. If you dislike housekeeping so much, you were foolish to marry. Every man likes a comfortable and attractive home. A wife should take pride in her home. You have been much at fault when you refused to assume the responsibilities of caring for a home. Of course, your neglect in this matter is no excuse for your husband's conduct, but since you, doubtless, are partially to blame, you should be only too willing to reach some agreement.

Be a woman and play your part fairly. For your sake, your husband's sake and, most of all, for your son's sake, start anew and give your husband another chance to make good.

Dear Miss Smart:

I am a girl 14 years old. Ever since I was a little girl I have always wanted to go into the movies. I am quite certain that I have some talent and I am really good looking. My parents have always objected to my taking up this line of work. Do you think they can always stand in my way?

Autumn Frocks

In Clever New Types of Cloth and Silk Crepe--

THE Dresses of the new season divide themselves into two classes. Those that are gorgeous with embroidery or beading and those that forget all adornment in their attention to line. In this last group are frocks with novel panels—often faced with a contrasting color that swing way below the hem, and frocks with a bit of fur to emphasize their straight, smart lines.

There are many variations of silk crepe. There is Canton, of course; Elizabeth, pebble and another as soft and attractive as it sounds, called mole skin. Black is autumn's color, with navy and brown as close rivals.

Cloth dresses favor the coat style, and are thus most desirable for fall wear with a fur choker. Silk braid makes an effective trimming, and narrow belts or jeweled girdles finish them.

FINE SCREEN MENU IS ARRANGED FOR THEATRE PATRONS THIS WEEK

FEAST FOR LOVERS OF THE FILMS

Excellent Programs of Past Week To Be Eclipse by Offerings Just Ahead

Cinema Devotees Have No Complaint Concerning Midsummer Offerings

(BY ESTHER WAGNER)

NO LOVER of the cinema, as a member of diversion, has any complaint forthcoming against the program of amusements as announced today by theatre managers. Patronage at the various playhouses during the past week was good evidence of the worth of pictures shown, but this week the schedule of silversheet attractions possesses more real merit than at any time during the summer season.

One of the best of the group is the feature, "Carnival," which opens week's run today at the Sigma theatre. This is a picture made in Venice, by an American staff, with latheson Lang and Hilda Bayley, international dramatic stars, in the leading characterizations. The settings and costumes are said to be magnificent throughout.

The Lyric theatre announces a program that is decidedly worth while pening today with Pauline Frederick in "Salvage." Miss Frederick, in this play of mother-love, has a noble role, and is assisted by such upable actors as Milton Sills and Ralph Ewys.

The last three days of the week at the Lyric brings May MacAvoy in "Forbidden Valley," a drama of the mountains with Little Miss MacAvoy peeping the success she made here, at week in "Sentimental Tommy."

Elsie Ferguson appears today at the Fauror opera house in Arnold Bennett's play "Sacred and Profane Love," in which Miss Ferguson was on the speaking stage last season. Conrad Nagel proves a splendid leading man for Miss Ferguson, whose histrionic talents were never better displayed.

On Tuesday, the Fauror offers us Weber's picture "Too Wise Wives," with Claire Windsor, Louis Thorn and Mona Lisa as the leading characters.

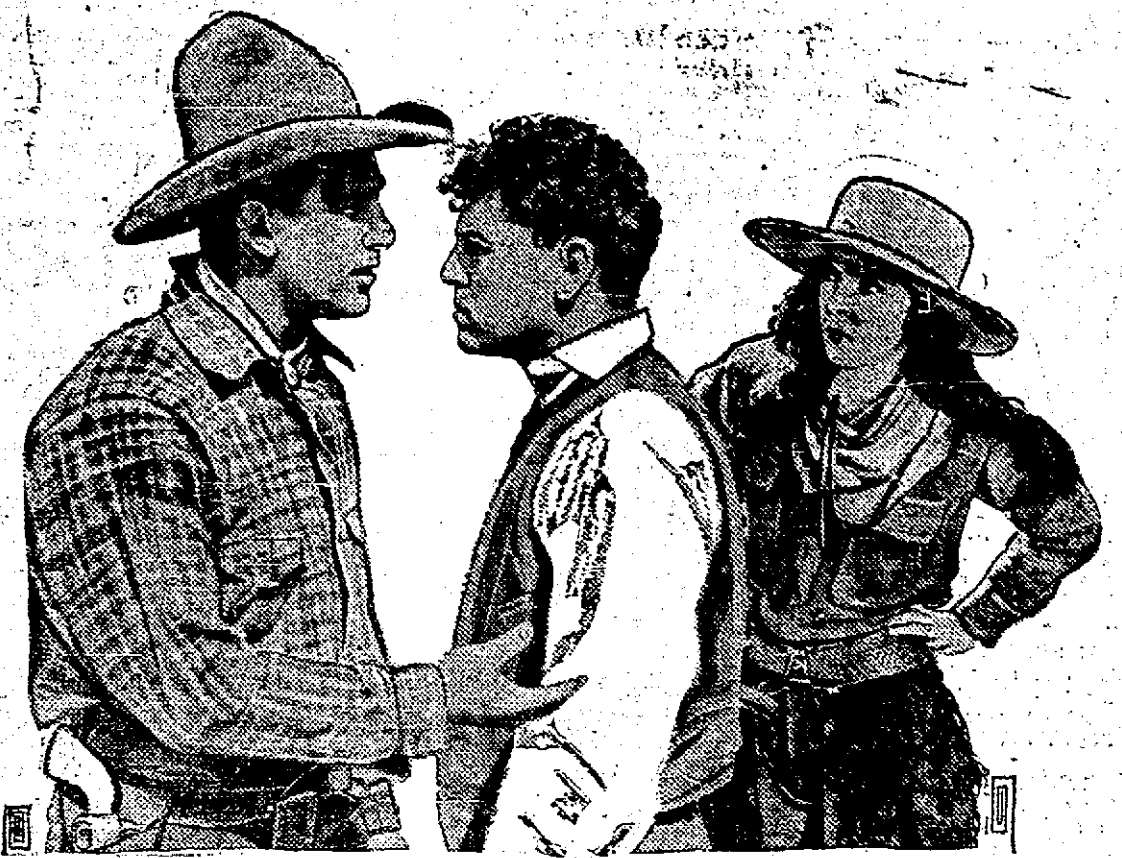

The picture relates the story of a married couple, the David Grahams and the John Dalys, and their search for happiness is one of the most amusing and truthful ones ever filmed.

The Regent theatre re-opens next Sunday evening, presenting as its major attraction, King Vidor's "The Sky Pilot," in which David Linder and Colleen Moore are featured. The Regent has been re-opened and redecorated and is as bright and as it is possible to be. As an opening attraction, "The Sky Pilot" is splendid entertainment.

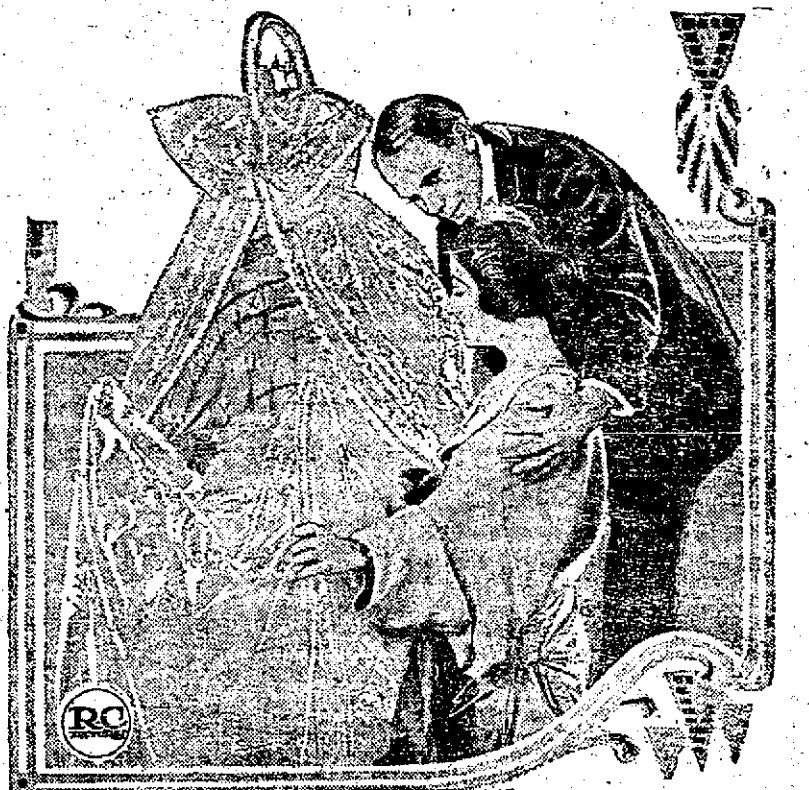

The Majestic theatre presents a gram of excellent films for the week, opening today with Justine Stone in "Blackbirds." On Wednesday the Majestic is featuring a off performance for the Shoe and for Needy Children. The picture for that day is to be "The Tree Knowledge," with Robert War-

ic Lyric's Pictures

AULINE FREDERICK'S latest super-special, entitled "Salvage" is the feature attraction today and four days at the Lyric theatre. The story's main theme is her love, with Miss Frederick playing a dual role. He is seen first as Mrs. Didge, a young woman of fine family breeding, who has always rejected marriage as a tender, beautiful ideal. Disillusionment follows closely upon the heels of her marriage to Cyrus Ridgeway, a powerful financial world, whose one aim is to get more gold. Fate takes him, however, when his heir is hopelessly deformed. With regard for the suffering of his near perfect as anything ever perpetrated on the screen.

The story of "Carnival" runs like this: Silvio, a famous theatrical star, resides in Venice with his wife and child. Carnival is approaching and Silvio thinks of nothing but his coming appearance in "Othello" (in which his wife plays opposite him) consequently his wife, Simonetta, is neglected. She falls under the sway of Count Andrea Scipione, a young rich Italian and friend of Silvio's.

Her husband is called away the night of the Carnival, leaving Simonetta a prey to disappointment and unhappiness. Andrea, however, comes to her rescue and together they go to the Carnival Ball, but the wife has forebodings and leaves early, returning to find her husband had missed his train and returned home. A dreadful scene follows; he mad with jealousy, she stubbornly refusing to give the man's name.

On the day following, at the theatre, Silvio accuses Andrea and orders him from his sight. In the last act of the play, Silvio, overcome with hatred and jealousy, lives his part, becomes the real "Moor of Venice" and almost strangles his wife in the death-bed scene. She is carried off and the play left alone, where all their misunderstandings are swept away and we leave the husband carrying his now repentant wife down to the waiting gondola.

Mr. Lang, in his role, is said to enact one of the greatest pieces of artistry ever given to a cinema audience. His role calls for widely different types of acting, but whether as the loving, devoted husband, lavishing attention upon his pretty but butterfly wife, or as the mad, demented actor trying to play the part of Othello while his thoughts are torn with rage and jealousy, he is always the supreme artist.

"Carnival" in its entirety, is truly a remarkable film. Don't miss seeing it at the Sigma, all this week.

And in addition to this feature, the program includes Lyman Howe's "A Ride on a Runaway Train" in which the optience is given the sensation of riding on a runaway train at a breakneck speed. This is a delightful little novelty and terminates a most enjoyable program.

The Fauror Pictures

TWO top-notch feature attractions appear on the Fauror's roster of films for the forthcoming week, the first of which is "Sacred and Profane Love," with Elsie Ferguson in the star role. This is the characterization in which Miss Ferguson was so successful ful on the stage last season. The story is one of Arnold Bennett's and is exactly suited to the talents of Miss Ferguson.

Carlotta Peel, played by the star, lives alone with her prudish aunt, in Bursley, England. Auntie thinks that Carlotta knows nothing of the world nor its evils, having kept her in seclusion most of her life. But Carlotta has worked off her surplus energy all these years by indiscriminate reading and by expressing her novel thoughts in writing.

Attending a concert without the knowledge of her aunt, Carlotta is fascinated by Emille Diaz, a pianist. Her aunt dies and Carlotta, free at last, becomes a successful author, loved by Frank Ipsenlove, her publisher and a married man. In Paris she again encounters Diaz, who has become a physical wreck thru indulgence in absinthe, and vows to devote her time to bringing him back to health and success. The end to this dramatic story is as interesting as it is unusual and brings happiness to all concerned.

Conrad Nagel, as Diaz, the pianist, does wonderful work, as does Helen Dunbar, as the aunt and Thomas Holding as the publisher. The engagement of "Sacred and Profane Love" is for two days only, at the Fauror Opera House.

Commencing on Tuesday, another of Lois Weber's productions will be shown at the Fauror. This is "Too Wise Wives" and is told in Miss Weber's inimitable style, with Clara Windsor and Louis Calhern in the leading roles.

Stories of wifely devotion pitted against "near-vamp" intrigues have often been depicted upon the screen, but so nearly does "Too Wise Wives" approach the everyday life of a married couple that the spectator sees only the realism. The story concerns the loves of two married couples, the David Grahams and the John Dalys. Mrs. Graham is imbued with faithful, wifely devotion. Her husband is inclined to be tickle and dreams of his old sweetheart, who is married, but he is brought back to earth by his wife, who, in process, learns a thing or two herself.

"Too Wise Wives" will play a five day engagement here.

The Rialto's Pictures

WALLACE REID is not the only one who proves himself a speed demon in "Excuse My Dust," the new automobile racing picture featuring the handsome star at the Rialto theatre today, Theodore Roberts, the veteran character actor, pilots a racer in the momentous contest that provides most of the thrills in the Reid feature. He did it with all the nonchalance of an Oldfield, guiding the car at a seventy-mile clip from Los Angeles to San Francisco and deriving keen pleasure and healthful excitement from the experience. His only regret, according to Mr. Roberts, was that he could not keep lighted the clear which is constantly between his lips.

"Excuse My Dust" is packed with fun and excitement. It is a companion picture to "The Roaring Road," a former Reid auto story, and, like its predecessor, was written by Byron Morgan. Ann Little is the leading woman.

The Majestic's Pictures

A CROOK drama of unusual interest is "Blackbirds," the feature attraction at the Majestic theatre. Justine Johnstone, former Polles favorite, is the star.

Contrary to most crook pictures, the action does not take place in the slums, but is confined to the wealthy society class, who move in the best circles and are so rarely detected. Miss Johnstone has a delicate role, but she handles it with pose and ability. Her costumes, through the picture, are sumptuous and the entire film breathes an atmosphere of wealth and luxury.

In addition to "Blackbirds" the Majestic's Sunday program contains a new two-reel comedy.

George Chesbro, leading man for the late Olive Thomas, is to be featured in a series of Northwest Mounted Police stories. "The Reckon" is the first.

Dustin Farnum has completed "The Primal Law" and has started "Cursed."

Wesley Ruggles, director, is cutting 100,000 feet of film he took for "Slippy McGee."

A FABLE: Once upon a time there was a movie queen who wasn't called the best dressed girl of the screen.

The Regent's Pictures

NEXT THURSDAY, September 1, has been set as the day on which the always popular Regent theatre will be opened for the 1921-22 season. And the management of the house has announced as the opening program two features of the very strongest character. The topline position is given to "The Sky Pilot," a picture of the story of Ralph Connor's story of a man who, after a picture which was directed by that master of the art, King Vidor, made up of a cast which is along all-star lines, it has in the leading roles such performers as David Butler, Colleen Moore, John Bowers and others of important standing. The second feature is one of those laughable Toonerville comedies, refreshing in its originality and a great step forward in the making of comedies for the screen.

During the past two weeks the Regent has been under a course of renovation and will be found in the best of condition. There will be no elaborate opening ceremonies—just a real entertainment which will be following the course of the Regent's reputation for the best in pictures always. A custom which has given the Regent the position of not disappointing audiences and which has therefore made it strong in the hearts of all Lima motion picture followers.

There will be no matinee Thursday afternoon. The reopening of the house being set for Thursday night at 7 o'clock. There have been several reservations for parties already for the evening show, and it is expected there will be others. Friday afternoon the house will open as usual at 12:45 p. m. and thereafter every day at that hour and will continue in operation until 10:45 every night. Change of programs will be effected twice each week and these changes will bring to Lima some of the big stars and specials which have been widely heralded during the past few months.

In booking "The Sky Pilot" for the opening, the management of the Regent had in mind the fact that it is a picture which seems to have surmounted the great obstacles of the hot weather of the past few weeks. It has indeed for this reason been known as one of 1921's best pictures. "The Toonerville Fire Brigade" is just as funny and laughable as any other Toonerville comic—in fact, it will doubtless yield more laughs than others which have been shown here. The Regent

Scene From "Carnival," at The Sigma, Today

News will be a welcome innovation this season. The program which opens Thursday will run for three days. Regular matinees after Thursday. Now popular prices will prevail. Regent advertisements will carry some mighty welcome information and they should be watched regularly. Some decided innovations will be announced for the Regent programs and patrons from time to time. Doors will open about 6:30 Thursday evening.

Coming to Orpheum
Uncle Tom's Cabin

In many respects William H. Kibbles' "Uncle Tom's Cabin" is the most important of the season's productions. In the first place, it serves to exploit the masterpieces of two of Europe's noted artists, i. e., Ralph Brunst's elaborate painting entitled "The Celestial City" and Hartz Verlon's picture of the New Orleans slave mart; and secondly it has brought back into prominence the memories of the grand old lady, Harriet Beecher Stowe, and serves to reveal the beautiful lessons really to be learned by careful attention. Second to the Holy Book does Uncle Tom's Cabin rank as a sacred instructor. The pulpit has indorsed it as a moral teacher worthy of mankind's support, while the Board of Education in many of the large cities has encouraged scholars in witnessing the worthy dramatization of the story that was instrumental in making our country religious, free and happy. Like a poor composed book, there are many versions of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," now being forced upon the public under embossed covering, which are detrimental to the greatest degree. It is a known fact that Mr. Wm. H. Kibbles possesses the original version of Mrs. Stowe's story and Wallace Reid in "Excuse My Dust," at Rialto Theatre Today.

When football spirals into view, With all its old time class— We'll drop the home run chatter For our friend the forward pass.

Good morning. Pretty nice day. D'ya hate to get up? Oh, boy, so did you truly. Going out to the game today, eh? Well, maybe we'll see you out there. This conversation isn't much, but we gotta fill. Surely, it ought to be a pretty good contest. Horse shoe pitching contest promises to be one of the features of the Van Wert-co fair, Sept. 7. Unproven Copeland, who has been serving in the Three Eyes league, is released by President Tierney. Eddie Collins and Judge Landis engage in a game of golf, at which the Judge shows he is the better of the two. Clarence E. Gray, personal representative of Tex Rickard, is fined $1,000 for bringing light pictures into Manchester.

IT CERTAINLY HAS BEEN DISAPPOINTING YEAR FOR OUR COUSINS ON OTHER SIDE OF POND

What is the matter with British athletes and athletics? The British themselves would give a good deal to know. Since the World War came to an end John Bull has been a consistent loser in many branches of sport and some of the losses he has felt most keenly have been swallowed right in his own backyard.

English critics of sport are continually harping about the inability of their athletes to return to a semblance of pre-war form, but they have been unable, apparently, to suggest a remedy. Without a doubt much of England's backwardness in returning to normalcy in sport may be laid at the door of the former German Kaiser and the ruckus he started in 1914. England lost many an athletic star, and her long and heroic struggle from 1914 to 1918 swept all thought of athletics aside.

Yet the English are lovers of sport of all kinds and, compared to the population of the "tight little isle," there are just as big percentages of competitors in various lines of sport as we have here in America. But still the British continue to take the loser's share of the spoils.

The year 1921 has been exceptionally disappointing to our cousins across the pool. Jack Hutchinson's victory in the British open golf championship was a severe blow. The victory of the American amateur golfers in the team match at Hoylake was another disappointment. John Bull found balm, however, in Miss Leitch's victory in the women's golf championship and the victory of Willie Hunter in the amateur at Hoylake.

Bill Tilden's successful defense of his international singles title at Wimbledon and the decisive manner in which the American polo four lifted the international cup did not sweeten John Bull's tea. The defeat of the British Davis Cup team by Australia at Pittsburgh recently and the annexation of the Oxford-Cambridge athletes who lost to Yale and Harvard and tied with Princeton and Cornell sums up British-American clashes in sport to date.

Over there they are still asking: "What is the matter with our athletes?" We may be wrong, but perhaps our English cousins do not play the game hard enough. The average Englishman, as we have viewed him—we do not mean the hudds or the hills—lacks the aggressiveness of our lads. He doesn't play his game as religiously and as tirelessly. He comes to a point where he lets well enough alone. Over here our athletes have had a tradition handed down to them. It is this: YOU ARE NEVER SO GOOD THAT YOU CANNOT IMPROVE YOUR GAME AND YOU WILL NEVER BE TOO GOOD TO BE BEATEN!

The American athlete has this warning in his mind all the while. He knows it is cold truth and he governs himself accordingly. It might not be amiss for John Bull to ponder on it.

Over there they are still asking: "What is the matter with our athletes?" We may be wrong, but perhaps our English cousins do not play the game hard enough. The average Englishman, as we have viewed him—we do not mean the hudds or the hills—lacks the aggressiveness of our lads. He doesn't play his game as religiously and as tirelessly. He comes to a point where he lets well enough alone. Over here our athletes have had a tradition handed down to them. It is this: YOU ARE NEVER SO GOOD THAT YOU CANNOT IMPROVE YOUR GAME AND YOU WILL NEVER BE TOO GOOD TO BE BEATEN!

The American athlete has this warning in his mind all the while. He knows it is cold truth and he governs himself accordingly. It might not be amiss for John Bull to ponder on it.

Without a doubt much of England's backwardness in returning to normalcy in sport may be laid at the door of the former German Kaiser and the ruckus he started in 1914. England lost many an athletic star, and her long and heroic struggle from 1914 to 1918 swept all thought of athletics aside.

Yet the English are lovers of sport of all kinds and, compared to the population of the "tight little isle," there are just as big percentages of competitors in various lines of sport as we have here in America. But still the British continue to take the loser's share of the spoils.

The year 1921 has been exceptionally disappointing to our cousins across the pool. Jack Hutchinson's victory in the British open golf championship was a severe blow. The victory of the American amateur golfers in the team match at Hoylake was another disappointment. John Bull found balm, however, in Miss Leitch's victory in the women's golf championship and the victory of Willie Hunter in the amateur at Hoylake.

Bill Tilden's successful defense of his international singles title at Wimbledon and the decisive manner in which the American polo four lifted the international cup did not sweeten John Bull's tea. The defeat of the British Davis Cup team by Australia at Pittsburgh recently and the annexation of the Oxford-Cambridge athletes who lost to Yale and Harvard and tied with Princeton and Cornell sums up British-American clashes in sport to date.

Jurist Favors Contest Between All-Stars And Independents

As much as I hate to say it, indications are that the proposed game between an all-star aggregation selected from teams in the Business Men's league and the Independents seems to be fading away in the distance. There seems to be a lack of pep in members of the business men's organization. These men apparently favor the contest. In fact they are for it in every way, except really putting their shoulder to the wheel and pushing. Everyone seems contented to let the other fellow put the thing across, but none appear willing to aid in the project. In the meanwhile, however, the proposed game is causing much speculation and talk in local baseball circles. So much, in fact, that it seems a shame to let it pass by.

If the instigators of the Business Men's league could only be made to realize what a feather it would be in the league's cap, I am positive they would arrange this post-season game. It behooves every baseball fan to do his bit toward keeping the game at a not hot heat in Lima. At the same time it behooves the organizers of the city league to stage this game because it will mean quite a few dollars in the pockets of the players who participate in the game if they see fit to split the proceeds among the performers. Judge Emmet J. Jackson, one of the liveliest wire sportsmen in this city, is absolutely in favor of the game. So strong does he favor it that he believes he has found the ideal way to stage it.

JIM JOLLEY SELECTS TEAM FOR POST-SEASON GAME There has been some talk of a game between an all-star aggregation selected from the Business Men's league and the Locomotive team of the Industrial league. Jim Jolley, manager of the Kiwanis team, believes it will be impossible to stage a game with the Independents, so he is strongly talking about the game with the Industrial league players.

WINTER SPORTS ARE FORGING TO THE FRONT With the end of the baseball season drawing closer sport fans are turning their faces toward fall and winter sports. However, not until after the World's Series will the faces be turned directly toward the cool weather sports. Colleges all over the country are announcing the dates when gridiron practice will start, and we have received two or three letters from independent teams in Ohio seeking football games with fast teams from Lima. Central and South Side high schools are just about ready to start grooming material for the varsity team. S. C. Biddle, Industrial secretary

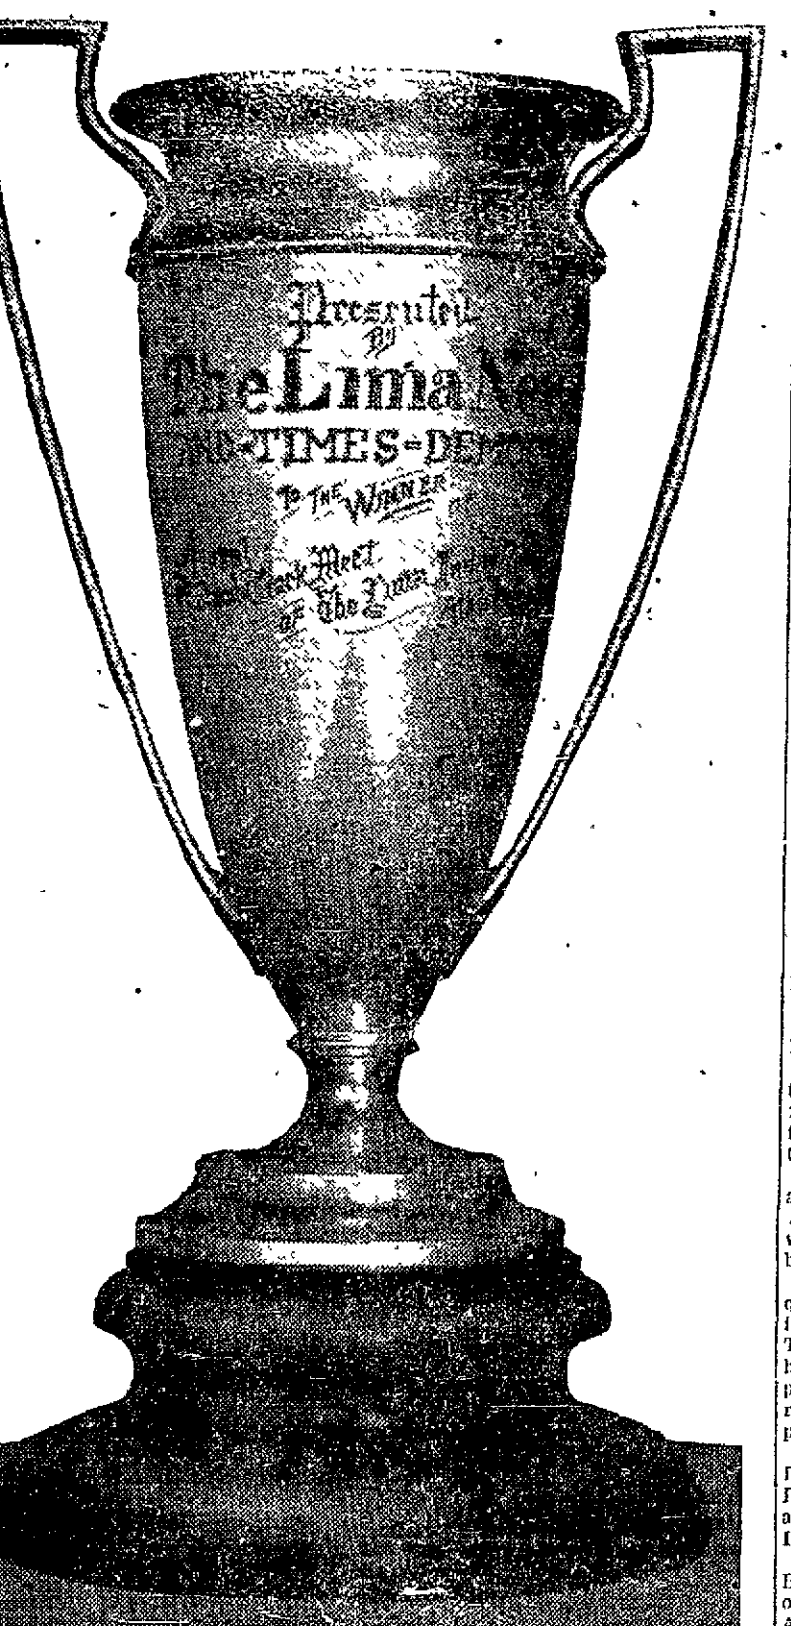

Don Baxter, local bantamweight scrapper, under Walter Perry's management, who was slated to exchange blows with Al Corbett, protégé of Jimmy Dunn's, August 29, was forced to call off the battle on account of an injured ear. Arrangements have now been completed whereby Baxter and Corbett will furnish amusement in the semi-final of the Kilbane-Frush title tilt in Cleveland, September 17. Perry made this announcement Saturday night. Baxter's ear is healing rapidly. Perry said, and the local mitt pusher will be in rare condition for his battle with Corbett.

Lions Team Guests At Dinner Wednesday The victorious Lions team, winners of the Business Club League pennant, will be guests at a dinner tendered them Wednesday night by other members of the Lions club. The affair will be strictly stag. It will be given at the Elks club. A silver loving cup offered to the winners of the hunting by the Marshall Sporting Goods House, will be presented to the team. The cup will be appropriately engraved.

SAM'S SAFE Sammy Harris, who is sending his prize featherweight, Danny Frush, into the ring against Johnny Kilbane for training expenses to fight for the title, is looking ahead. He made a champion out of Kid Williams. Then Williams left him when the money began pouring in. Harris has signed a five-year contract with Frush which will take effect the minute he becomes feather king.

Frush trusts Harris. He is for him all the way. Should he snatch the moss covered crown from Kilbane's brow he will share his earnings 50-50 with the man who made him champion.

HERE'S TROPHY NINE TEAMS WILL BATTLE FOR LABOR DAY

By virtue of their victory last Labor Day over opponents in the first annual track and field meet of the Lima Industrial Athletic association, the Garford team now holds the trophy. In order to claim the cup permanently a team must annex it three times.

The Solar refinery is touted, by those who claim to know, as one of the strongest aggregations entered in the Labor Day classic. By virtue of their victory last Labor Day over opponents in the first annual track and field meet of the Lima Industrial Athletic association, the Garford team now holds the trophy. In order to claim the cup permanently a team must annex it three times.

St. Marys Should Offer Stiff Opposition For Locals The St. Marys aggregation doesn't need any introduction to Lima fans. The Auglaize-co lads have played a pair of games in Lima. The first contest went to St. Marys. The Independents, in the second contest, got desperate and grabbed it off. This is the third game today. The series goes to the first team to win three games.

NOEL WILL WORK With that Noel in the box, any team is strong, for that buddy is a strong factor, himself. He'll be on the mound here this afternoon. Opposing him will be Alexander, the Great, winner of the extra inning contest last Sunday. Large Field Promised For Labor Day Classic Here

More than 100 athletes will compete for the Lima News and Times-Democrat loving cup at Fairport park here Labor Day in the dual track and field meet staged by the Lima Industrial Athletic Association. These athletes will represent nine industries located here. That is, also industries have signified their intentions of entering the meet. However, it is not at all unlikely that more will turn in their names at Monday night's meeting of association officials at the Y. M. C. A.

Plans are being made by officials to take care of more than 5000 spectators. Employees of practically every industry will turn out to witness this annual classic. A large entry into the matches is the Deisel-Wemmer company. Officials of that concern assure association members that, at least, 85 per cent of its employees will be present to watch the matches. This same ratio will apply to other firms entered in the meet, officials declare.

The nine industries which have already signified their intentions of entering the meet and who have representatives training for the event are Solar Refinery, Locomotive Works, Lake Erie and Western railroad, Lima Storage Battery Co., Lima Telephone Co., Lima Cord Sole Co., East Iron and Machine Co., and P. J. Banta Co. Each of these plants have from seven to 20 contestants entered.

LAST MEETING THURSDAY Monday night officials of the association will receive the names of the contestants. In fact, all names must be in the officials' hands by Monday night. Along with the names will be a list of events in which each contestant will participate. The names and events will then be turned over to the games committee which will arrange a program. This program will be completed by Thursday night when the final meeting will be held. At this last meeting each man will be given a number by the games committee which he will wear during the meet. The annual classic will start promptly at 9 o'clock Labor Day morning. It is anticipated that the meet will last until about 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

Monday which the association had in its treasury was spent purchasing medals to be given winners of events. Because of this it was feared there would be no chance to obtain a band to furnish music for the meet. However, Secretary Biddle prevailed upon the manufacturers to donate money enough to which to hire a band. As a result, there will be music in the afternoon. Emmett J. Jackson, judge of criminal court here, has been definitely selected to act as presiding judge of the meet. Jackson acted in this capacity at the first annual meet last year, and was so satisfactory that the association was unanimous in wanting him to serve again this year. Jackson's assistants have not yet been selected. It is highly probable that these men will be named at Monday night's meeting.

GARFORD IS OUT The Garford team which carried away honors at the first meet will not be entered this year, Secretary Biddle announced Saturday. Efforts to obtain a team which would be worthy of notices when contending against the crack outfit entered proved futile, so it was decided that the auto makers would remain out of the meet this year. It was announced, however, that the Garford will be represented next year in an effort to annex the cup for the second time.

The cup presented by the News and Times-Democrat must be won three times before it becomes permanent property. The Garford team won it last year.

He has been guaranteed $7500 for boxing Jeff Smith in Jersey City next Tuesday.

Georges Would Evade Taxation By Having Tom Come Over

By FRANK TUCKFIELD

DIEPPE, France—(Special)—Georges Carpentier is figuring on fighting Tommy Gibbons on this side of the Atlantic.

No, the light heavyweight champion of the world is not afraid to risk his title in America. Nor does he fear but what Tex Rickard could put up a liberal purse. What does worry him is the taxes.

He's afraid that by the time the tax collectors on both sides of the Atlantic get thru, there wouldn't be much left for Georges. This was his experience after his fight with Jack Dempsey — for which he drew a larger purse than he probably could get with Gibbons.

"My plans?" he repeated. "For the moment all the bathing, golf and automobile and sleep I can get into 24 hours of each day. It was a great relief for me to know that I could relax after my long and severe training for the fight with Jack Dempsey. I think my nerves must have suffered, too, but I am feeling splendid now."

MUCH DISAPPOINTED
"I don't suppose I shall ever get over my disappointment at the way the Jersey City fight went, but I am not worrying about it."

"When do you expect to re-visit America?" I asked.

"I don't know," he replied; "perhaps never, at least as a boxer."

"My greatest wish now is to retire from the ring. I should like to get in just one more good fight before saying 'good-bye.'"

"With Tom Gibbons?" I interposed.

"Maybe," he answered. "But I know there is nothing yet decided."

"Dempsey has not signed up for anything so far. I know that he is negotiating for this last match. There is likely to be another cable contest between managers for the event."

RIVAL BIDDING

Tex Rickard is making tempting offers to stage the match in America. Major Wilson is also keeping the wires busy with similarly tempting offers for London.

"Which of the two is likely to win out?" I asked.

"It seems to be an even chance as far as I am concerned," he answered. "I know that Rickard has the bigger purse, but the American tax regulations will so reduce the winnings that the odds are more likely to be in favor of Wilson and his smaller offer."

"The money propositions being equal, London would most likely be the scene of the fight."

"When would it take place?" I asked.

"In October, I think, the, as I say, nothing definite has been decided."

BECKETT AND COOK

"Wilson, I understand, is trying to arrange a match between Beckett and the Australian, Cook, suggesting that I should meet the winner of this bout. That's as much as I know."

"Which would you prefer, America or England?" I asked.

"It's the same to me," he replied. "All I want is one last good fight and I don't care where I have it."

"And after that?" I put in.

"After that," repeated Georges. "I don't know. My wife wants me to take it easy. She insists we have enough money to live comfortably. But I don't think I could stand being without something to do. I shall probably go into business."

BUSINESS PLANS

"Four aluminum factory?" suggested.

"No," he replied. "That's merely a side line with me, but a very profitable side line."

"I have received a lot of offers to go into the automobile business. This line appeals very much to me. I thoroughly understand cars and I feel I could make out well as a car agent."

"Another suggestion is that I open up an athletic school where I could give instructions in all forms of physical culture."

"After my match with Beckett, an Englishman in London made me a very tempting offer for such a school. My brother, you know, runs one in Paris and does very well. With such a school I should still be in my element."

WANT COIN

George Gibson's Pirates are pulling for the Yankees to cop the American League pennant. With the flag almost in their grasp Pittsburgh is figuring on the world series Jack already.

They're nothing against Cleveland Indians. But they know a big series in New York with Babe Ruth Co. would draw more money than in Cleveland.

GRID WORRY

Harvard confronts tough proposition on the gridiron this fall. They know that no team is any stronger than it's front line.

Tolbert, Havemeyer, Woods, Hubbard, Paxon, Sedgwick checked in their cleats a year ago. There are no new "Tarzans" yet in sight to take their places.

All-Star Team To Battle Loco Wednesday

The Locomotive ball team, winners of the Industrial league pennant will play a three game series with an all-star team to be selected from members of the Business Men's league which recently closed its season here. This announcement was definitely made Saturday night, P. H. McClain, manager of the Engineers. Efforts to match these two teams have been under way for some days, but a definite decision was not reached until Saturday. The first game of the series will be played at Murphy-st ball park Wednesday afternoon.

Bill Harman, manager of the Lions team, which fought its way from the cellar to the top of the ladder by 10 consecutive victories, has been selected to lead the All-Star team. Just who will compose this aggregation has not been definitely decided upon. However, Harman, it is understood, has a tentative line up which he will submit to those members of the city league who are interested in the game.

There have been several suggestions from members of the league, and it is not at all improbable that these opinions will be considered in the selection of the all-star team.

FOR CUP

Indications are that Thomas Lipton will challenge for America's cup in 1922.

Members of the New York Yacht Club hope Tom will go easy for a while until financial matters rest easier.

Cost of this race is enormous. A half million in each side wouldn't cover the bill.

It cost $500,000 to defend the cup 18 years ago with the Reliance. Expenses last year cost both sides near a million.

BARN IS BURNED EARLY SUNDAY

Fire on Joseph Wingate Farm Believed Incendiary

Fire of mysterious origin totally destroyed a barn belonging to Rev. Joseph Wingate, N. McCullough-st, outside the city limits at 1 a. m., Sunday, during the absence of the owner. The loss will approximate $1,000. The building is not believed to have been protected by insurance.

R. P. Diehl, a grocerman at Findlay-rd and McCullough-st, discovered the fire as he was preparing to retire.

He telephoned the department, but the fire had gained such rapid headway the barn was a mass of flames before the fire apparatus reached the scene. Firemen could do little save prevent the fire spreading to nearby residences.

No live stock or grain was in the building, according to Mike Troxel, a brother-in-law of Wingate. A large quantity of lumber and tools was housed there, he stated. He fixed the value of the contents at $700.

Wingate carried insurance on his home, he stated, but he was uncertain whether the barn was protected.

Rev. Wingate is a Methodist minister and travels from one country to another. Three companies answered the alarm. Nothing was in the structure at the time of the fire, according to residents. The origin of the blaze is undetermined. The loss will not exceed $40.

MOLLA'S HUSBAND HER GREATEST ADMIRER

Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory's husband is a good sport.

He isn't jealous because his wife, queen of America's tennis courts, usurps all the family limelight.

Instead he's the proudest man in New York.

He's so proud of Molla that she has to suppress his enthusiasm sometimes.

Following her sweeping victory over Mary K. Browne at Forest Hills, which again crowned her as the national champion, he was the first to rush across the courts to grasp her hand and congratulate her.

Mr. Mallory is just as anxious as his wife that she should meet Suzanne Lenglen again.

DISAPPOINTED.
"I was more disappointed than Molla, herself, if that was possible, when Suzanne defaulted," he says.

During the matches at Forest Hills he sat in a box and led the cheering for his wife.

"Mr. Mallory is a broker in New York, but sidetracks business when his wife is in action on the courts."

There is just one flaw in Molla's whirlwind of victories, according to the Mallorys.

It was the empty triumph over Suzanne.

ENTHUSED
When asked if she wished to meet Suzanne again, Molla's eyes lit up like storm clouds as she flashed her reply:

"Do I?"

And when asked if she thought she would beat the French marvel:

"OF COURSE I WILL!"

If Suzanne accomplishes her ambition to annex the world tennis title she'll have to conquer both the Mallorys—Molla with the power of a giantess in her racket wrists, and the husband who'll be lending his most potent support 100 per cent to his wife in her greatest contest.

ONE ARMED MAN WONDER ATHLETE

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — (By Newspaper Enterprise) — Only one-armed, but plays golf, football, baseball, basketball, handball, tennis and is a crackjack swimmer.

That's attributed to Raymond O. Valley, young Memphis lawyer.

He made a good showing in the recent Memphis Associated Amateurs Municipal Golf Tournament here. He was eliminated in the semifinals of the second flight. Valley lost out on the 18th hole in his match.

NO HANDICAP
"I do not mind that the loss of my left arm handicaps my golf," says Valley. "One arm is all a golfer needs."

"I have a highly developed right arm and shoulder, and an even straight stroke, which gets me good distances on drives."

He averages 200 to 250 yards on his drives. This is a good distance for a person with two arms. Valley has turned in some splendid scores since he took up golf.

Par on the Overton Park course here is 35, and he has made it in 36. He has finished in 33, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36, 37, 38, 39, 40, 41, 42, 43, 44, 45, 46, 47, 48, 49, 50, 51, 52, 53, 54, 55, 56, 57, 58, 59, 60, 61, 62, 63, 64, 65, 66, 67, 68, 69, 70, 71, 72, 73, 74, 75, 76, 77, 78, 79, 80, 81, 82, 83, 84, 85, 86, 87, 88, 89, 90, 91, 92, 93, 94, 95, 96, 97, 98, 99, 100.

Many wonder how Valley can compete with the best in the different lines of sport, but he does not think it queer. He figures that if anyone concentrates and keeps on plugging, he can do almost anything.

Valley is 27 years old. He lost his left arm when seven years old, trying to steal a ride on a street car.

Thomson has reached the age when he wants to tackle hurdles in the business world.

ON BOX WORK
Pitching is about 60 per cent of a team's strength.

High batting machines are often down in the standings.

Pittsburg, with a batting strength around .290, is leading the National Pitching and all-around play has kept them constantly in front.

In the American, Detroit, Cleveland and St. Louis are ahead of the Yankees in batting in spite of the slugging of Ruth, Baker and Meusel.

Yet the Yankees are getting better than average pitching for this kind of season.

INDIANS BEAT NATS WHILE REDS LOSE TO PHILS

Champions Pound Ball Beating Senators Handily

CLEVELAND—(Special)—Defeating the Senators here Saturday afternoon by the score of 6 to 2, the Indians maintained their lead over the Yankees despite the fact that the latter walloped Detroit into submission. The Tribe after watching Jeremiah Tecumseh Zachary lay 'em across the plate in the first three innings, got to him with a fusillade of heavy artillery and banded his offerings to the four corners of Dunn field for a total of 11 hits. Bill Wamby led in consistent hits, grabbing two safeties in three times to bat. Speaker, Jamieson and Burns each got two hits in four trips to the plate. This was the only performer on either team to hit for an added base.

The Nationals got to Uhle in the sixth. With two runs across and the bases clogged, Speaker derided Uhle and called Sergeant Jim Bagby to the rescue. Bagby was entirely equal to the occasion. He forced Sharrity to hit into a double play and the Senators were retired without more ado. But was the hitting team on the Nats, procuring a trio of hits in three times to the plate. Zachary might have been a little behind in hitting, but he was out in front when it came to lambasting the onium. The elongated twirler got two safeties in the four times he batted. Miller also got two hits in four.

Hornsby Continues To Set N. L. Pace

Rogers Hornsby After suffering from a slight slump in his hitting, Rogers Hornsby, sweetest batsman in the National league, regained his eye last week, and is pounding the sphere at a .414 clip. There seems to be little chance of Hornsby losing the title of the league's best batter which he gained last year. Austin McHenry, Hornsby's team mate has dropped to .338, but Mann, another Cardinal, is slapping the onion at a .343 pace, while Fournier, St. Louis first sacker, clouts it at a .339 clip.

Pirates Downed

NEW YORK — (By United Press) — Dashing into the fray with their old-time fight, the New York Giants Saturday scattered the Pittsburgh Pirates to the four winds and converted the National League walkway into a race. Art Nehf twirled the Pirates into the discard, winning 3 to 1 and allowing the visitors but four hits.

WANTED - A HUSBAND

By SAMUEL HOPKINS ADAMS

"Oh!" gasped Darcy, turning fiery red, for it is one of our paradoxical conventions that a young lady may discuss the inside of her stomach without shame, but not the outside.

Mr. Dunne regarded the blush with disfavor. "Look-a-here," he said bluntly. "Yah needn't get rattled. Yah'r my pupil. I'm yah trainer. That's all there is to it. If we're going to get along comfortable. Get me?"

"Yes," said Darcy. "I won't be silly again. And I'll try and mind the diet."

Vastly to her surprise and gratification, the neophyte arose on the following morning without severe symptoms of lameness. The only unusual phenomena she observed were a lack of interest in her food which she set down to the discredit of the diet, and a tendency to fall asleep over her work. Opening her eyes on that second day after Mr. Dunne's mild but sufficient schedule Darcy became cognizant that every hinge in her body had rusted.

She attempted to swing her legs out of bed, and stuck, with her feet jerking from the clutches, paralyzed and groaning. From the bedroom next to Darcy's alcove Helen Barrett tottered drowsily in.

"What ever is the matter, Darcy? Are you ill?"

"No! No! I'm all right. Only—"

"Get your legs back in bed."

The kindly Helen thrust back the protruding limbs, thereby wringing from the sufferer a muffled shriek which brought Maud Haines to the scene. Darcy began a cautious process of emerging from bed. "Do be good—ugh!" she implored. "And don't—ooch!—ask questions—and draw me a boiling hot bath—ow-h-h—and help me into it—oh-h-h—dear!"

Greatly wondering, they followed the sufferer's directions, and her hotly embarrassed, unconcerned themselves outside the door, which they left carefully ajar for explanations.

"Darcy, you've got to see a doctor," they insisted.

"I haven't! I won't!"

"But if you can't move—"

"I'm much better now. Really I am," declared the other. "I'm going to dress."

Which she did, at the price of untold pangs. After the frugal and tasteless ordeal of hominy without sugar, followed by one egg without butter, she limped into the front room and set herself doggedly to the elaboration of a new design for B. Riegel & Sons. Her unwillingness to take the lesson set for that afternoon was obvious.

She would write to Mr. Dunne and explain. No; she would telephone him. Better still, she would go up to the Academy of Tortures in person and exhibit to the proprietor's remorseless eyes the piteous wreck which he had made of her blithe young girlhood.

She went. Mr. Andy Dunne regarded the piteous wreck. "Yah got five minutes," he remarked emotionlessly; glancing at the clock.

"I can't possibly go on today," said Darcy firmly.

"No."

"Every bone in my body creaks. I haven't got a muscle that isn't sore. I ache in places that I don't even know I had. Why, Mr. Dunne, you declared impressively that I was to be in the painful instruction. If I tried to go thru those exercises again today I'd die!"

"Gumph!" said Mr. Dunne.

"I s-s-e-can't do it and I won't!" said Darcy, like a naughty child.

"Yah paid me three hundred dollars, didn't yah?"

"Yes," replied Darcy, her heart sinking at the recollection of the sum which she had invested in assorted agonies.

"Did yah think that was going to buy yah what yah'r after? It ain't. Money can't buy it. Yah gotta have grit."

Under impulsion of the sterner will, she got into her gymnasium suit and was on the floor only three minutes past the hour. Mr. Andy Dunne led her to a large, rough mat and bade her stretch out on her back.

"Lift the left foot in the air," he directed.

Darcy did so, with caution.

"Higher!" said Mr. Dunne.

"Oo-ye!" lamented Darcy.

"Back. Lift the right foot in the air."

Darcy obeyed without enthusiasm.

"Higher!" said Mr. Dunne.

"Oo-ye!" mourned Darcy.

"Back. Lift both feet in the air."

"Oo-ye!" said Darcy.

"Yah gotta!" said Mr. Dunne.

Two quivering, quivering legs rose slowly from the mat, attained an angle of forty-five degrees, and dropped back to earth with a thud.

"Higher!" commanded the pitiless Mr. Dunne.

"Can't!"

"With a spasmodic heave, the victim attained perhaps fifty degrees of elevation, and straightened out, gasping. Next her instructor had her sit up erect from a flat position, without aid from hands or elbows, whereat all the muscles in her back, thighs and abdomen, hitherto unawakened, roused themselves and yelled in chorus. Then he had her repeat the whole devastating process from the first before he spoke the word reprieve.

"Nuff!"

Darcy rolled over on her face and lay panting.

"How'd' feel?"

"Awful!" gasped Darcy.

"Still a bit stiff?"

"A bit! Oh-h-h-h!"

"Then we'll do it all again," said Mr. Dunne cheerfully. "Nothin' like light exercises to loosen up the human frame."

Over the twistings and turnings, the arm flexures, the hoppings and and skippings, the tingling of the outraged muscles, the panting of the overtaxed lungs, let us draw a kindly curtain.

Darcy went to bed at 8 o'clock.

that night, having eaten almost nothing.

Sleep such as she had not known in years submerged her. Roused late by her companions, she sat up slowly in bed. Of that crippling lameness there remained only a trace. In its place was left a new variety of pang. She was ravenously hungry.

Andy Dunne, calling up Gloria to report progress, thus delivered his opinion:

"You know that squab you sent me, Miss Greene?"

"Yes."

"She wanted to quit."

"No! Did she do it?"

"I begged her out of it. And say, Miss Greene!"

"Yes, Andy."

"There may be something to that kid."

"Glad you think so."

Said Andy Dunne, expert on the human race, slowly, considerably and more prophetically than he knew:

"I kinda think there's fighting stuff somewhere under that fat."

Had Andy Dunne's surmise been laid before Darcy, it might have brought sorely needed encouragement to her soul as the regenerative process went on. Darcy enthusiastically hated Andy.

At first sight she had estimated him as a stern spirit. Thru successive changes that reckoning had been altered to "harsh," then "brutal," and now "satanic." Gloria's judgment of her note of introduction as "a commutation ticket to hades, first class," was amply borne out.

There came a day when something happened.

"Yah'r gettin' stale," observed Mr. Dunne, which Darcy thought a hopeful beginning.

"I feel so!" she said.

"There's a clock," Mr. Dunne informed her, "at Fifty-ninth and Eighth."

Darcy waited.

"There's another at a Hundred's Tenth and Seventh," pursued the chronological Mr. Dunne, and fell into calculating thought.

Darcy waited again.

"Yah leave Fifty-ninth at 4.20 p. m."

"When?"

"Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays."

"Oh!" said Darcy blankly.

"And yah get to a Hundred's Tenth in time to hear that clock strike 5."

"What? Walk? Nearly three miles in forty minutes?"

"No," said Mr. Dunne thoughtfully.

"Then, how—"

"Yah'd better run part way, or yah won't make it on time."

"Suppose it rains?" put forth Darcy desperately.

"Then yah'll get wet," was Mr. Dunne's reasonable answer.

"And catch my death riding back in the bus."

"Don't ride. Walk. I'm giving this to yah for fresh air."

"But Mr. Dunne—"

"Time!"

(To be continued.)

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of Orchard White, which any drug store will supply for a few cents, shake well and you have a quarter pint of harmless and delightful lemon bleach. Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face, neck, arms and hands each day, then shortly note the beauty and whiteness of your skin.

Famous stage beauties use this lemon lotion to bleach and bring that soft, clear, rosy-white complexion, also as a freckle, sunburn and tan bleach because it doesn't irritate. — Adv.

MARRY TO ESCAPE WORKHOUSE

Judge Jackson's Ultimatum Heeded by Couple.

Thomas Harris, 28, laborer and Mrs. Janie Hubbard, 25, laundress, colored, both of 447 Lake-st., escaped serving a term in the Toledo workhouse, by seeking the marriage license parlor and were made one. The couple were arrested on a statutory charge. When arraigned before Judge Jackson Saturday, he ordered them to be married or go to the workhouse. They lost no time in getting to probate court, Justice Ernest M. Botkin performed the marriage ceremony. "Be sure and tell Judge Jackson we are married," Mrs. Harris told Justice Botkin as soon as the ceremony was over. "Yes, do," said her husband, "cause if you don't, it's the work-house for us." They had no money with which to purchase a certificate of marriage. Justice Botkin confided the news to Judge Jackson shortly after he said the words which made the two, one.

SHORT SHAVINGS

Time means nothing in the life of Theodore Bird, Cleveland colored boy, who was recently confined in city prison on a charge of peddling without license. Bird plead not guilty.

"I'll give you a hearing in police court, next Monday," Judge Jackson told him.

"Judge," Bird replied, "you'd do me as well make that the last Monday in March, 'cause Ah ain't got no unfinished business at hand, and Ah needs a good place to sleep."

A man entered the savings department of the Old National Bank and addressed Earl Robn, manager. "You're the counsellor, aren't you?" he asked. Robn replied that he was.

"Well," said the man, "there's a cat out in our neighborhood keeps everybody awake nights. I want you to come out tonight and shoot it."

Stere Walls, taxi driver, solicited a pretty girl whom he saw wandering about the Square Friday, to ride to the fair grounds.

"I haven't very much money," replied the girl.

"Jump in and ride out, anyway," said the driver. "I've a load and am going out."

When the machine reached the grounds, the other passengers disembarked and paid, leaving the girl still in the machine.

"If you please, Mister," said she, "I don't think I care anything about this old fair, but I would like to take a little ride."

Ernest C. Baird, 1546 W. North-st., a clerk at the Solar Refinery and a member of Christ Episcopal church Men's club, claims to be the club's champion coffee maker and challenges all other members to a coffee-making contest.

"But on one condition," says Baird. "I have to have my wife present. I can never remember whether it's two spoons of coffee to three cups of water or three spoons of coffee to two cups of water."

HAYS' ORDER OLD STUFF HERE

Service Suggested by Postoffice Head, Long in Use.

Suggestion made by Postmaster General Will Hays, that a clerk be designated in each office to assist strangers and tourists, is an old story in Lima. Postmaster J. E. Sullivan stated Saturday:

"We have been doing it right along," he declared, "and will continue to do so."

In a bulletin issued August 25, employees of the department are urged to aid strangers as far as their regular duties will permit. It is suggested that the name of the city be posted in a prominent place in each post office. The great number of travelers are mounting up and down the country, the bulletin states, afford the department an opportunity to help by being in a position to give them reliable information.

Some one in each office equipped to give this aid and give attention to the mail of travelers, is recommended. It is urged that tourists should be made to feel at home in any postoffice.

Opinion Backed Up By Other British Officers.

(BY CHARLES M. McCANN)

LULL, England.—The official inquiry into the disaster to the ZR-2 which began Saturday at Howden, near here, will almost certainly produce a tremendous sensation if the results of its findings are made public.

I have learned that evidence of a startling nature, showing that the giant dirigible, which buckled, broke in two, exploded and fell into the river Humber was considered unsafe by most British airmen who knew her, has been placed before a board of inquiry. Written reports of airship experts to the effect that the ZR-2 was not strong enough were handed to certain authorities before the fatal flight, it was learned.

Lieutenant Wann, navigator of the wrecked dirigible, lying on his bed in the infirmary here, suffering from serious injuries received when the ZR-2 exploded and fell, Saturday, called for a police inspector.

To him, he handed the following signed statement, which was to be laid before the inquiry court at Howden:

"The accident to the ZR-2 was due to structural weakness. I had intended this to be my last flight."

From what I have been told Saturday by British officers who are experienced in handling "lighter than air" craft, I gather that the view was generally held that the ZR-2 would never have finished an Atlantic trip.

"Impossibly favorable" weather conditions would have been necessary to assist her across, British airmen believed.

Officers who perished on the fatal last trip, knew that she was structurally defective, their comrades said here Saturday. They wished to prove to the Americans that the cable couldn't make the flight to America. They expected a breakdown and went to their deaths bravely, silenced by the traditions of the service.

The court of inquiry which was presided over by Vice Air Marshal Salmon, and an American, Lieutenant Dyer, on board. Its session was private.

Love flew out of the window when she was forced to live in boarding houses and room at hotels, Mrs. Tess Haak, 19, complained to Judge P. C. Becker, when her divorce case against her husband, George Haak, 18, came up for hearing Saturday. Mrs. Haak is a clerk at the Leader store.

ROBBERS SURROUNDED IN WEST VIRGINIA HILLS

FAIRMOUNT, W. Va.—Search for two of the three bandits who held up the paymaster and superintendent of the New England Fuel and Transportation company mine near Lowesville, continued Saturday night in the hills where it is believed the men are surrounded by a posse of armed citizens and mine officials. William Rowe was shot and killed when he refused to surrender after he had been rounded up. The other two men escaped with about $15,000 of the payroll. Approximately $10,000 was recovered from Rowe's clothing.

David Richardson, the paymaster, accompanied by the superintendent and assistant superintendent of the mine were on their way from the railroad station with the payroll and were crossing a trestle when the men jumped from the sides and ordered "hands up."

COMBINE NORMALS UNDER NEW LAW

County-City School For Teacher Training Open Sept. 6.

This year a new normal school system will be conducted in Allen-co. Formerly the county and city held separate normal schools. New laws provide that this year the normal schools shall be combined. The new county-city normal school promises to be a distinct success. More applications have been received by County Superintendent C. A. Arganbright and City Superintendent J. E. Collins than can be taken care of in the new school. About 40 applications have been received, while only 25 can be accepted. It was first estimated that only 25 could be taken for the new school, but this number was increased.

This system gives the county students who desire normal training a much better opportunity to secure the necessary credits. Of the 29 accepted applicants, 14 are from the county and 15 from the city. Under the new law combining the schools, the state appropriates $2,500 for expenses and $200 extra for equipment. The county and city supply the remaining necessary finance.

Two teachers are required for the new school. Miss Ilo Maddux, who has been in charge of the Lima school for some time, will continue this year.

County officials have selected Miss Agnes Nichols, now teaching in Wilmington College, to assist Miss Maddux. The school opens on September 6th.

JUST HOW IT'LL AFFECT YOU

Highspots of Changes Made in Present Federal Taxation Scheme.

BY HARRY HUNT
WASHINGTON—It's going to be cheaper to scrub your teeth, once the Republicans get their new revenue bill enacted, than it was when the Democrats were in power.

Also, it will cost less to decorate your home with art bronzes or statuary, or to buy Sonny that baseball bat and glove.

And every time you take your wife or sweetheart a five-pound box of chocolates you'll be a whole dime ahead, if the confectioner plays square with you and gives you the benefit of the two cents per pound tax reduction of the new law!

An analysis of the new revenue bill, in the form in which it was passed by the house, shows that the bigger spender you have been the bigger savings you may be able to make under the new tax schedules.

If you've been living close to the line, holding down on the number of ice cream sodas and the amount of candy you consume, denying your wife flummerys and cosmetics, traveling little and puffing your pipe in shirt sleeves instead of a smoking jacket, the bill holds only one relief for you. That is:

If you have a big family, you'll get a $400 exemption on each child, for income tax purposes, instead of $200 as allowed by the Democratic law.

On the other hand, while the new tax schedules will save you that two-cent tax on your weekly ice cream soda, and two cents on each pound of candy, not to mention tax-free tooth-paste and lip-sticks, the assessment of John D. and other gentlemen with incomes above the million dollar mark will be reduced $350,000 on each million of net taxable income.

The average citizen, however, with income of from $1000 to $5000 a year, will feel some relief under the provisions of the law as passed by the house.

Taking income taxes first, the new law increases the exemption of the head of the family from $2000 to $2500, where the net taxable income is less than $5000 per year. Where the net income is $5000 or more, the exemption as head of a family remains at $2000.

The exemption for each dependent child under 18, or for such other person totally dependent upon the head of the family, is increased from $200 to $400. With these exceptions, the income tax law remains unchanged for the taxpayer on $5000 to $66,000 income.

But if you are one of the super-taxpayers, with a net income exceeding $66,000, you will be more interested in the amendment which strikes out all higher surtaxes than the 32 per cent fixed for income above that amount.

President Harding and judges of the supreme and inferior courts are relieved from any tax on their federal salaries.

Officers in the army and navy, however, who have been allowed exemption up to $3500, are returned to the status of the ordinary civilian.

CORPORATION TAXES
Corporation income taxes are amended, to provide a tax of 12 1/2 per cent instead of 10 per cent on net income, effective in 1922.

The graduated excess profits tax on corporations is repealed, effective January 1, 1922.

Taxes on insurance companies are fixed at 12 1/2 per cent of their net income, beginning with 1922, instead of a tax of eight cents on each $100 of insurance written and $1 for each $1000 of surplus and reserves.

The transportation tax of eight per cent on passenger business and five per cent on freight is repealed, effective January 1, 1922.

TAXES REPEALED
Of the excise taxes, those on soft drinks and ice cream, considered objectionable because so obtrusive, are repealed.

The tax on candy is reduced from five cents to three cents a pound. Taxes on sporting goods are reduced from ten to five per cent.

Art goods are assessed at five per cent instead of ten per cent, and the rate on the major items in the excise list scaled down.

While the rate on yachts is reduced from ten to five per cent, however, a luxury tax is placed on many articles beginning at figures considerably lower than those now in force.

For instance, the tax will go on carpets and rugs at a value of $350 per square yard instead of $6; on umbrellas at $2.50 instead of $4; on grips at $15 instead of $25, etc.

However, it is altogether too soon to attempt to compute how much you will pay Uncle Sam in taxes under the new bill. For the senate has not had its say as yet, and the bill that emerges from the senate may differ radically from that passed by the house.
